Newark Plans Insurance For Religious

NEWARK—On the eve of his second session of the 118th General Assembly meeting, and amidst the reorganization of the establishment of a family and health insurance program for the Sisters, Brothers, Priests and Religious of the Diocese of Newark, New Jersey, Monsignor Joseph L. Dougherty, Chancellor of the Archdiocese of Newark, has announced a plan to introduce an insurance policy for the Religious of the Archdiocese of Newark.

Religious Education Stressed

NEWARK—Archbishop Theodore E. McCarrick, representing the Holy See, spoke to the Sangamon Diocesan convention on the subject of religious education. He emphasized the importance of religious education in the development of the Christian faith and the moral character of its practitioners. Archbishop McCarrick underscored the need for religious education programs that foster a deep understanding of the faith and its teachings.

Jersey City Boys' School Will Accommodate 1,200

NEWARK—Plans were recently announced for the establishment of a new high school for boys in Jersey City, New Jersey. The school, which will be named after the late Archbishop John J. O'Connor, will accommodate 1,200 students and is scheduled to open in the fall of 2023. The school will provide a modern learning environment and state-of-the-art facilities for students.

ACCM Also Acts on Race To Take Census of Archdiocese

By J.B. GRANT

The Archdiocese of Newark has announced plans to conduct a census of its membership. The census, which will be conducted by the Catholic Archdiocese of New York, will include all members of the Archdiocese, both residents and non-residents, and will be conducted in two phases. The first phase will be conducted in October, and the second phase will be conducted in November. The census will be used to update the Archdiocese's records and to provide a clearer picture of the Archdiocese's membership.

Church Stand Unchanged On Marxism

CASTLEFORD, June 2—Cardinal VI, who was present at the plenary session of the Bishops' conference in Rome, said yesterday that the Archdiocese of Newark, New Jersey, would not change its position on Marxism. "We are not going to change our position," he said. "We stand firmly on our principles and will not be swayed by pressure from outside forces."

Grave Parental Duty In Education

FOLLOWING is the text of Archbishop Borden’s letter on the following of Catholic Doctrine classes for Catholic children in public schools.

A Catholic counts among his duties to promote and defend the sacred institution of the Church. This fact was brought home to me with emphasis recently when I visited a large city. Amid the noise of the crowd, amidst the confusion of the crowd, I could not help but see the face of a woman who was lost in thought. She was gazing at the sacred emblem of our Church, admiring its beauty and wondering about its significance. It was then that I realized that the truest form of devotion is to do one’s duty, to fulfill one’s obligations, to be a good Christian.

NEWARK — The Department of Christian Doctrine of the Archdiocese of Newark will hold a series of training sessions for new and existing teachers of religion classes throughout the archdiocese. These sessions will be held on a series of eight Saturdays, with the first session beginning on Sept. 11, 1963.

The sessions will be held at various locations throughout the archdiocese, including Newark, Trenton, Hackensack, and Jersey City. Each session will last from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. with a lunch break from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

The sessions are open to all teachers of religion classes, including substitute teachers. Registration is required and can be done online at the archdiocese’s website.

The sessions will cover various topics related to teaching religion classes, including the history of the Church, the beliefs of the Church, and the role of the teacher in the classroom.

President Salutes Educators

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — President John F. Kennedy on Wednesday praised the educational system of the Catholic Church, saying it has played a "great role" in American history.

"We are very proud of the

Bigger Role Asked

For School Parents

BY JOHN NOYES — How important is it for parents to be involved in the education of their children? The president said Wednesday that parents must be "fully informed" about the programs offered by their local parishes.

The president also said that the role of the Catholic Church in education should be "greatly expanded." He added that the church should be "fully involved" in the education of its members.

Founded Trinitarians

American-Born Vincentian Candidate for Beatification

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — The first step has been taken toward the possible canonization of an American-born Vincentian priest who founded a new religious community.

Father John A. Judge, C.S.V., who left Ireland at the age of 21 to begin his religious life in the United States, is the subject of an investigation by the Vatican's Congregation for the Causes of Saints.

The Congregation has formed a "tribunal" to examine the life and work of Father Judge, who has been in the United States since 1919.

Leetons to Stress Unity

South Orange — The fourth annual Catholic Information Conference of the Archdiocese of Newark will begin Sept. 15.

The conference will be held at the General Valvano Center and will include talks by Msgr. John J. Dunne, principal of the archdiocese, Rev. Joseph A. Doyle of Seton Hall College, and other religious leaders.

The theme of the conference is "The Role of the Catholic Church in Education." The speakers will discuss the importance of education in the lives of Catholics and the challenges facing the church today.

DePaul to Dedicate

New Wing Sept. 17

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 16 (AP) — DePaul University will dedicate its new wing Sept. 17. The wing will include a new chapel, a library, and additional classrooms.

The dedication ceremony will be attended by students, faculty, and the university's trustees.

The new wing will be a significant addition to the university's facilities, providing additional learning space for students and faculty.

The dedication will mark the beginning of a major expansion of DePaul's campus, which includes several new buildings.

Further details will be announced in the future.
The Question Box
The Case Against The Marriage Law

Q. It seems that the present marriage law is not constitutional because it is openly discriminatory. The Church has opposed the law for a number of years, but I'm not sure if the law is being applied correctly by the civil authorities. Could you please clarify this?

A. We are aware of the recent developments and the questions being raised, but it is too early to say whether the law is being applied correctly. We are still engaged in dialogue with the authorities to ensure that the law is applied in accordance with Catholic teachings.

Q. I heard that some Catholic bishops have expressed concern about the implementation of the law. Is this true?

A. Yes, it is true that some bishops have voiced their concerns about the implementation of the law. However, the Vatican has made it clear that we are committed to working with the authorities to ensure that the law is applied in a manner that is consistent with our teachings.

Q. What is the Vatican's position on this issue?

A. The Vatican strongly opposes a law that violates the dignity of human persons and the Church's teachings on the sanctity of marriage. We are committed to working with the authorities to ensure that the law is applied in a manner that is consistent with our teachings.

Q. Is it possible that the Vatican is overlooking certain aspects of the law?

A. No, the Vatican has not overlooked any aspects of the law. We are committed to working with the authorities to ensure that the law is applied in a manner that is consistent with our teachings.

Q. What is the Church's role in this situation?

A. The Church's role is to provide moral guidance and to work with the authorities to ensure that the law is applied in a manner that is consistent with our teachings. The Church is committed to promoting the dignity of human persons and the sanctity of marriage.

Q. What can people do to support the Church's position on this issue?

A. People can support the Church's position by praying for the authorities and by engaging in dialogue with them to ensure that the law is applied in a manner that is consistent with our teachings.

Q. Is the Vatican considering any legal action to oppose the law?

A. We are currently engaging in dialogue with the authorities to ensure that the law is applied in a manner that is consistent with our teachings. We are committed to working with the authorities to ensure that the law is applied in a manner that is consistent with our teachings.

Q. Is the Church's opposition to the law based on religious beliefs or political considerations?

A. The Church's opposition to the law is based on religious beliefs. We are committed to promoting the sanctity of marriage and the dignity of human persons, and we believe that the law violates these principles.

Q. What is the Church's stance on same-sex marriages?

A. The Church strongly opposes same-sex marriages and has been consistent in its opposition to such marriages. We believe that marriage is a union between a man and a woman, and we are committed to promoting the sanctity of marriage.

Q. Is the Church's opposition to the law consistent with its teachings on human rights?

A. Yes, the Church's opposition to the law is consistent with its teachings on human rights. We believe that every human person is created in the image of God and deserves dignity and respect. We are committed to promoting the sanctity of marriage and the dignity of human persons, and we believe that the law violates these principles.

Your World and Mine
BRAZIL'S NORTHEAST: "EXPLOSION" FEARED

By RAY HESS

Brazil is reaching new peaks in po- litical unrest. The conflict is acute in the Northeastern states of Maranho, Para, and Bahia. The conflict is over the rights of the inhabitants to self-determination and the end of the rule of the military regime. The situation is volatile and the outcome is uncertain.

The Northeast region of Brazil has a high percentage of indigenous populations, and the conflict is over the recognition of these populations and their rights to land and resources. The military regime has been accused of using violence and repression to maintain its control.

The situation is complicated by the presence of paramilitary groups and criminal organizations, which are exploiting the situation for their own gain. The government has been accused of failing to take effective action to address the situation.

The conflict has also sparked protests and demonstrations, with people demanding the end of the military regime and the recognition of their rights. The situation is likely to continue to escalate unless the government takes effective action to address the situation.

The Northeast region is also facing economic difficulties, with high unemployment and poverty rates. This is making the situation even more difficult to manage.

The government needs to take a more proactive role in addressing the situation, including by negotiating with the indigenous populations to find a peaceful resolution. It also needs to address the underlying economic issues to help the region develop and grow.
The Invisible Press

The invisible Press, while not questioning the advisability of Church censorship itself, does so because the present system has failed in its purpose of being an effective deterrent to the evil of sin. The Press is the medium through which the Church has tried to influence the life of the individual, but it has been largely ineffective. The Press has not been able to present the truth in a way that is persuasive to the average person. The Press has been too often used as a weapon of the Church against the secular world, and as a result, it has been looked upon with suspicion by many people. The Press has been used to further the interests of the Church, rather than to serve the interests of humanity.

The Legion and Snobbery

The Legion Legion is a book about the life of a young man named Richard, who is a member of the Legion of Christ. Richard is a member of the Legion of Christ, a religious order founded by Father Ángel Usandizaga, O.P., in 1941. The book is based on the author's own experiences as a member of the Legion of Christ. The book is a semi-autobiographical account of the author's life as a member of the Legion of Christ, and it is written in a style that is both humorous and serious. The book is a good read for anyone who is interested in the history of the Legion of Christ, or who is interested in the history of the Church in general.

Course of Study: Social Awareness

By REV. FRANCIS P. McEVEE, M.D.

Newark, N. J. - In an effort to assist those greatVinodSwarup students who desire a wider knowledge of the world, the President of the New York City Council for Social Work Education, Mr. McEvee, has recently announced the opening of a new course of study for students who wish to specialize in social work.

The course is designed to provide a deep understanding of the problems facing our society today, and to equip students with the knowledge and skills necessary to address these challenges.

The course will cover a wide range of topics, including poverty, racism, and inequality, and will be taught by leading social work educators from around the country.

In addition to the formal coursework, students will have the opportunity to participate in field placements and internships, allowing them to gain practical experience in social work settings.

The course of study will be offered on a part-time basis, making it accessible to students who are working or have family responsibilities.

If you are interested in learning more about this exciting new opportunity, please contact the New York City Council for Social Work Education at 123 Main Street, New York, NY 10001, or visit their website at www.nycswf.org.

Institute Program at Seton Hall Relates to Our Modern World

By E. W. WADDINGTON

South Orange - When Seton Hall University inaugurated its Institute for Eastern Studies, the city of South Orange was immediately offered the use of its magnificent new science laboratory as a center for the study of Eastern cultures.

Now, it is being used as a center for the study of modern world affairs.

The Institute's program includes courses in Chinese literature, history, and culture, as well as lectures and symposia on current issues in the field.

As a result of the Institute's efforts, South Orange has become a center for the study of modern world affairs.

Missioner Uses Postcards To Spread Faith in Japan

KYOOTO, Japan (CNS) — From the halls of the Historical Museum, it's a short walk to the Church of the Sacred Heart in Kyoto.

The church is a place of worship and a symbol of the Mission movement in Japan.

The missioner, Brother John H. Hughes, uses postcards to spread the message of the Church in Japan.

He started the project in 1924, and it continues to this day.

The postcards are sent to Missionaries around the world, and they are a way of sharing the message of the Church.

The postcards are a reminder of the Church's mission to spread the faith and bring salvation to the world.

Brother in Demand At Carpenter Shop

HOLMILL, Conn. (CNS) — "It's been a challenging time," said Mr. John F. Clark, who owns the Carpenter Shop in Holmhill.

But it's also been a rewarding time, as the shop has seen an increase in demand for its products.

Mr. Clark is currently working on a new project, a set of bookshelves for a local library.

He says that the demand for his products is due to the increased awareness of the importance of sustainability and the need for durable, long-lasting furniture.

Mr. Clark is proud of his work and is committed to providing high-quality, environmentally friendly products.

He says that he is looking forward to the future and is excited about the opportunities that lie ahead.

H. DREIRO, Dallas—Mr. George G. Higgins, president of the Dallas Chapter of the American Jewish Congress, said this week that the recent wave of racial disturbances throughout the South was the result of government inaction.

"This is the most discouraging aspect of the situation," he said.

The Dallas chapter president, who has been working closely with local civil rights leaders, said that the recent wave of disturbances was the result of "growing public apathy and the lack of government action." He added that the recent wave of disturbances was a "clear indication of the need for effective government action in the South."

Young Advocates Have Own Magic Words

By SUSAN DENES

Young Advocates have many things in common, but one they share is their love of magic and its potential to create change. The group, known as "the Advocates," meets weekly to practice their magic skills and to discuss ways in which they can use their abilities to benefit others.

The Advocates believe that magic is a powerful tool for bringing about positive change. They use their skills to create illusions, focus people's attention on important issues, and help others to see things in new ways.

One of the Advocates' projects is a magic show for children in local hospitals. They have also worked with a community organization to create a magical escape room that raises awareness about environmental issues.

The Advocates are not just interested in using magic for entertainment. They are also committed to helping others and making a difference in their communities.

They believe that magic can help to break down barriers and bring people together. They often perform at events where they can reach a diverse audience, and they are always looking for new ways to use their skills to make a positive impact.

They encourage others to join them in their mission to use magic for good. They believe that everyone has the power to make a difference and that magic can be a way to inspire and empower others to do so.

If you're interested in learning more about the Advocates or joining their group, you can contact them through their website or social media pages. They are always looking for new members and are happy to share their magic with anyone who wants to learn.

and St. Paul's. A double by Mike Lesage and singles by Dave Hontz and Dave Wilde drove in the other runs. St. Paul's was also on the scoreboard in the third inning, when the visitors added two more runs, playing small ball to the maximum. Lesage and Hontz reached on errors, bringing in the second and tying the score at 2-all. And in the seventh inning St. Paul's widened its lead, scoring three runs on the strength of a double by Mike Lesage and singles by Henry and Lesage. Wilde drove in the third run with a sacrifice fly. Wilde drove in the fourth run with a sacrifice fly.

Catholic Youth

By REV. JOSEPH T. McGREGOR, S.J.

When all things have been said and done, "Clod's" background is found in Bible. He is the brother of the firstborn, as is shown by the three times, "firstborn" is mentioned in the passage. The firstborn, as such, is shown to be more important in the story, as he is always mentioned first in the list of brothers. The word "firstborn" is used to denote the importance of the brother, as he is the one who will inherit the family's possessions.

The SPOONBILL ELIXIR MIXER

In days of yore, this potion brewing, no telling, nonentity-kind might have been allied to a devil's drink, but today it is mostly used to produce cures. The elixir has been reputedly used as a substitute for coffee in correcting various ailments. The mixer has been praised for its ability to cure a wide range of ailments, from colds and flu to gastrointestinal disorders. It is also said to have an anti-inflammatory effect and to reduce pain.

So much for the "elixir". It is not the cure-all it seems to be, but it does have some uses. It is a natural remedy that may help with certain conditions, and it is easy to make at home. If you are interested in trying it out, you can experiment with different ingredients to find what works best for you.

Newark — The struggle for the smooth two-way traffic at the junctions of New Jersey and Pennsylvania routes was in full swing Friday, as motorists prepared to face another day of traffic delays.

The problem is caused by the construction of the New Jersey Turnpike, which is being built in stages. The second stage, which includes the junctions of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania routes, is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Motorists are advised to use the alternate route of the New Jersey Turnpike, which avoids the construction area.
