New Council Directives Provide Role for Laity

SON VOYAGE - Off to Rome for the second session of the Ecumenical Council was, left to right, Auxiliary Bishop W. Burnett, Archbishop Keelty and Auxiliary Bishop Joseph A. Costello. They sailed Sept. 12 on the Independence. This will be the first visit by the three to the Vatican, which was consecrated last January.

"America" Article Draws Informal Holy Office Reply

At a meeting of the Holy Office, Pope Paul VI has directed that Catholic laity be asked in the second session of the Ecumenical Council to discuss questions relating to laity as a way to provide a role for lay Catholics. The Pope gave the following reasons for making the suggestion:

1. The Council is concerned with the needs of the Church as a whole and not just the clergy.

2. The Church needs lay leaders to act as its representatives in the world.

3. The Church needs a closer relationship between the clergy and the laity.

4. The Church needs to address the problems of modern society.

The Pope's directive was well received by the Catholic laity, who welcomed the opportunity to participate in the Ecumenical Council.

Two Priests Volunteer

Patierson to Establish A Mission, in Peru

PATERSON - Bishop George R. Stumpf, Auxiliary Bishop of Paterson, and the Rev. John R. Keen, a priest of the Diocese of Paterson, announced today that a mission was to be established in Peru.

The new mission will be located in the city of Lima, which is located in the province of Lima, in the Department of Lima, in the country of Peru.

The mission will be opened to serve the needs of the people of Lima, who are predominantly of the Catholic faith.

The mission will be staffed by two priests, who will be provided by the Diocese of Paterson.

The mission will be located in a building that was donated by the people of Peru.

The mission will be under the direction of the Rev. John R. Keen.

The mission will be open to the public on a regular basis.

What They Expect From Council

Eastern Rite Catholics Emphasize 'Universality'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Eastern Rite Catholics emphasize “Universality” as they look forward to the upcoming Second Vatican Council in Rome, according to a recent statement issued by the Holy See's press office.

The statement, which was released in advance of the council's opening, noted that the Eastern Rite Catholics, who follow the liturgy and tradition of the Eastern Orthodox Church, believe that the council should be inclusive of all Christian traditions and denominations.

Eastern Catholics, who are legally recognized in most countries, are part of the wider Catholic Church and hold the pope as their spiritual leader. However, they retain some distinct practices and customs that are unique to their respective Eastern traditions.

The council is expected to address a range of issues, including the role of women in the church, the nature of the liturgy, and the relationship between the church and the world.

Notes on the Council

Predict Third Session to Complete Work

Opinion is prevailing that there will be no more sessions at least before the Vatican Council is able to complete its work.

Among the latest to express this view are Joseph Cardinal Frings, of St. Louis, and Archbishop of Chicago, and Father P. M. Palermo, of Detroit.

Both have stated that the council is likely to finish its work by the end of the year, even if the council continues to meet beyond the planned end date.

Council Directives

The council's directives for the next session are expected to focus on the role of the laity in the church and the relationship between the church and the secular world.

'Nature of Church' First Council Topic

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Second Vatican Council opened its third session on Monday with a focus on the "nature of the church" as its first council topic.

The council, which is made up of representatives from all major Christian denominations, is expected to address a range of issues related to the church's role in society and its relationship with the world.

Parochial Aid Opposed in Poll
Palatine Rev. Larry Harris and his supporters oppose the parochial aid bill now before the Illinois General Assembly. He says the bill would ask parishes to pay $1,000 for every student they send to state universities. Harris believes the bill is unconstitutional and that it would set a dangerous precedent. The bill is supported by many Catholic educators who argue that it is necessary to keep parishes involved in their local communities.

North Bergen Board Says 'No' to Church

North Bergen — The North Bergen Board of Education has voted to oppose the request of Rev. George A. O'Gorman, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, for the use of the school grounds for church-related activities.

The board voted 2-1 to vote against the request, with the vote in favor coming from the school administrator, Mrs. John D. Clark, who noted the school was closed on Sundays due to a lack of clergy. She also noted that the school had been closed on Sundays for years due to lack of clergy.

TO THE ADVOCATE

Dear Editor:

I am appalled to see that a letter written by a woman who is the mother of a young woman in the age group of 16-18 is published in this newspaper. The letter is written by Mrs.SEF THOMAS, who is the mother of a 16-year-old girl named Gail Thomas, who is a Catholic student at the Catholic University of America. The letter is directed to the President of the University.

The letter is written in response to a procaine drug essay that was written by the student. Mrs. Thomas states in the letter that she is concerned about the effects of the drug and that she believes it is necessary to take action against it. She requests that the university take steps to prevent the use of cocaine on campus.

Sincerely yours,

To the Salesman who does not yet have New Jersey Blue Cross-Blue Shield

During 1983, one out of every seven people in New Jersey is almost always accompanied by medical or surgical expenses. This unexpected expense could leave you financially strapped. There is Blue Cross-Blue Shield, protection to absorb all or most of it.

If you are in the category of people who are not covered by group protection, wouldn't it be wise to carry this necessary protection on your own?

Don't wait ... and then say, "I wish I had taken Blue Cross-Blue Shield."

Midst a Metropolis, a Mission

By RUTH W. KIRBY

I was taught reading in the Franklin Academy junior college and was given the opportunity to become a teacher. I was taught that there was a need for new teachers who were qualified and interested in teaching.

School musicals opened in the fall of a particular year. The musicals were held on Friday and Saturday nights and were very successful. The students were very enthusiastic about them.

The next problem was how to begin. The academy was a very small school and we had only one classroom. We had to find a way to accommodate the large number of students.

The program was divided into four sections, each section being taught by a different teacher. Each section was divided into two parts, and each part was taught by a different teacher. The sections were:

- Science
- Math
- English
- History

In the science section, we had a small room with a blackboard and a few tables. The students were divided into groups of four and each group was taught by a different teacher.

In the math section, we had a large room with a table and chairs. The students were divided into groups of four and each group was taught by a different teacher.

In the English section, we had a small room with a blackboard and a few tables. The students were divided into groups of four and each group was taught by a different teacher.

In the history section, we had a large room with a table and chairs. The students were divided into groups of four and each group was taught by a different teacher.

We also had a small room where we could have a small assembly or a small meeting.

What is the most important thing you have learned in your teaching career?

I have learned that teaching is a very important role in society. It is a way to help young people develop into good citizens. It is also a way to help young people learn about themselves and their world.

What is the most challenging aspect of teaching?

The most challenging aspect of teaching is dealing with the different needs of each student. Each student is unique and has different learning styles. It is a challenge to find ways to help each student learn.

What is the most rewarding aspect of teaching?

The most rewarding aspect of teaching is seeing the growth and development of each student. It is a very satisfying feeling to see each student progress and learn.

If you could change one thing about the educational system, what would it be?

If I could change one thing about the educational system, I would change the way we assess students. I believe that we should assess students not just on what they know, but also on how they learn. We should give students the opportunity to learn in different ways.

If you could give one piece of advice to someone who wants to become a teacher, what would it be?

If I could give one piece of advice to someone who wants to become a teacher, I would say to follow your heart. Teaching is a very rewarding profession, and it is a way to make a difference in the lives of young people.
There's A Cop Named Joe

BY REV. JOSEPH T. McGINNIS, S.J.

Joe takes quite a whuppin' on occasions. His fellow officers tell him he is a delight to work with. He is a constant source of calm, even tempered, and a man to whom you could give any job and you'd feel safe about it. Joe is a natural leader and has a way of making the whole department feel at ease.

Joe is a man of few words, but when he speaks, he speaks with authority. He always has a smile on his face, even when things are going badly.

For sportspersons things were no different. They would occasionally slip, and Joe would come to their rescue. He was always there, no matter how hard the situation was.

Despite his many accomplishments, Joe never let it show. He was humble and always willing to help others.

CONGRATULATIONS

Blessed Sacrament, New Jersey

Joe was named the 1963-64 CYO Announcer of the Year by the New Jersey Catholic Youth Organization. He was also named the CYO Announcer of the Year for the state of New Jersey.

Joe has been a member of the CYO for many years, and has been an active participant in CYO activities.

He is a true champion, both on and off the court, and his dedication to CYO has been unwavering.

Saints Lose Two Top Coaches

By ED WOODWARD

PHILADELPHIA—It was the end of an era in Philadelphia's basketball history on Friday, when the two top coaches of the city's major teams, St. Mary's and St. Joseph's, announced their resignations.

St. Mary's coach, John Kennedy, who has been with the team for the past six years, will take a teaching position at the University of Pennsylvania. St. Joseph's coach, Joe Doyle, will also leave his post to become the athletic director at another university.

The departures of Kennedy and Doyle leave the city's basketball community in a state of flux, with speculation running high about who will be the next coaches of the two teams.

St. Mary's, which has a long history of success in the city, has won numerous championships under Kennedy's guidance. St. Joseph's, on the other hand, has struggled in recent years, but Doyle's departure leaves the door open for a potential turnaround.

The news was met with a mix of sadness and excitement by the basketball community, who looked forward to seeing how the teams would perform in the years to come.

The departures also raise questions about the future of Philadelphia's basketball landscape, as the city has long been known for its strong basketball culture.

The end of an era

The departures of Kennedy and Doyle signal the end of an era in Philadelphia's basketball history, as both coaches have been instrumental in shaping the teams' success.

Kennedy, in particular, has been with the team since its founding in 1963, and has been a driving force behind the team's many championships. His resignation leaves a void that will be difficult to fill.

Doyle, on the other hand, has been with the team since the mid-1970s, and has been a key figure in the team's development. His departure will likely have a significant impact on the team's future.

The future of Philadelphia basketball

The departures of Kennedy and Doyle leave a number of questions hanging over the future of Philadelphia's basketball landscape.

It remains to be seen who will take the reins of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's, and how the teams will perform under new leadership.

The basketball community will be watching closely to see how the teams develop in the years to come.

The Holy Father’s Week

Pope Lands Marian Devotion

Pope Paul VI made his recent trip to the Holy Land a Marian pilgrimage. At a time when the Church is commemorating the centenary of the Apparitions of Fatima, the visit was a fitting gesture of devotion to the Virgin Mary. The Pope, who was accompanied by Rabbi Eliahu Schneour of Jerusalem, spoke in a ceremony held in the Church of the Annunciation in Nazareth. He also visited the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem, where the Pope lit a candle that had been brought from Fatima.

The Pope’s visit was an occasion for the faithful to reflect on the importance of Mary in the Church’s faith. The Pope’s words, quoted in the document, reflect the Church’s long-standing devotion to the Virgin Mary. The Pope’s visit was also an occasion to pray for the peace of the Holy Land and for the 解决 of the conflict in the region.
