Annual Clothing Drive Aids Poor in 67 Lands

NEWARK — The collection, the sixth in the annual clothing drive to aid the poor in 67 lands, will be held this Sunday in the Pauley Gymnasium, 24th and North Broad Streets, from 2 to 4 p.m. All who can are asked to contribute their share.
Theology of Religious Freedom Is Evolving

By Joseph Cardinal Ritter
Archbishop of St. Louis

May be circulated to as many friends against their will, but no copy is to be sold or reprinted in bulk.

"WHY IF WE desire to see our cherished religious principles preserved for future generations, we must be willing to sacrifice the claims of the whole world for the sake of the Church. If we desist, then our true interests may be damaged, and the Church's claims will suffer."

NEW YORK, March 6, 1963

The goal of the Catholic Church in relation to its own internal affairs is to promote the spiritual well-being of its members. This principle, however, is not absolute in itself. It is subject to the condition that the Church, in exercising its authority, should be guided by the principles of justice and charity. And when these principles are in conflict, the Church must weigh the importance of its own interests against the public good.

More recently, it has been realized that the concept of religious freedom has changed over the centuries. In the past, it was viewed as a privilege granted to individuals by the state. Today, it is recognized as a fundamental human right, and the Church must respect this right in all its aspects.

One example of this change is the Church's position on the issue of religious education. In the past, the Church had a monopoly on religious instruction, and it was viewed as a matter of state. Today, however, the Church recognizes the right of individuals to choose their own form of religious instruction, and it supports the freedom of parents to determine the religious education of their children.

Another example is the Church's position on the issue of religious worship. In the past, the Church had a monopoly on religious worship, and it was viewed as a matter of state. Today, however, the Church recognizes the right of individuals to choose their own form of religious worship, and it supports the freedom of religion in all its aspects.

In conclusion, the Church must be willing to sacrifice its own interests for the sake of the public good. This principle is essential to the protection of religious freedom, and it is a principle that the Church will continue to uphold in the future.

Human Needs

In the concluding pages of his recent book, "Gentile, Jew, and the Church," Bishop John Neuhaus has written about the "perilous situation" we face in the world today. He says that "we are all in the same boat." But he also argues that we must not, in our individualism, "turn our backs on the world."

These words are particularly relevant to the current crisis in the world. We must not be content with our own ethnic or religious community. We must, as Bishop Neuhaus says, "be a force for good in the world."

The Church must take a lead in this. We must not be content with our own small community of believers. We must be a force for good in the world.

For example, we must work to end the nuclear arms race. We must work to end poverty and hunger. We must work to promote peace and justice.

In short, we must be a force for good in the world. We must not turn our backs on the world. We must be a force for good in the world.

The Church must take a lead in this. We must not be content with our own small community of believers. We must be a force for good in the world.
Mark Twain's 'Religion'

By JOSEPH A. BEED

"What a pity that some one else didn't invent it."

Mark Twain

Twain, the father of writing and the hero of our daughters, and "those things he said" would probably never see the light of day.

As Dr. Poulson said, it is a pity that Twain's personal philosophy about religion is so fully in tact. It is a question of the real thing.

It is curious. On the one hand, no one wants to hear about religion as it is seen to be a necessary evil in the real world. And yet we are not religious, and the author of "Funeral Sermon" sees the church as a basically good institution.

We do not know what to make of Twain's philosophy, and we have no inclination to try to make sense of the religious beliefs that he expressed. The only thing we can say is that he certainly was a master of the human condition.

"Apostleship of Prayer"

Council Focus

Of Prayers

The introduction of the Holy Father for November is again an example of the council's efforts to promote the observance of the Sunday's liturgy.

In his message, the Pope emphasized the importance of prayer in the life of the church and its members.

"We must make prayer a priority in our lives, a way of expressing our love for God and for one another," the Pope said.

The Pope also encouraged the faithful to participate in the liturgy, both in church and in their homes.

"Let us pray together, as a church and as individuals, for the grace to realize the fullness of our faith," the Pope said.

"Letters to the Editor"
The New Jersey Layman at Vatican II

BY ANNE MARIE SOUTER

In the course of my discussion with Dr. Paul Foust, he referred to the importance of the role of the laity in the Church. He mentioned how the laity are involved in various aspects of the Church's mission and how their active participation is essential.

Dr. Foust said, "The laity are not just passive recipients of the Church's mission, but are active participants in it. They have a duty to engage in discussions and debates about the Church's teachings and to contribute to its development.

He continued, "The laity have a responsibility to be involved in the Church's work and to contribute to its mission. They should not be afraid to speak up and to challenge the Church's teachings when necessary."

Corruption In Movies

By WILLIAM H. MORGAN

The ongoing practice of-illegitimate remuneration by Hollywood screenwriters causes no end of problems and produces a number of bad movies. Although the term "corruption" may seem a strong word to describe such practices, it is used to describe the practice of paying screenwriters below the industry's accepted standards of remuneration. This phenomenon occurs in Hollywood and in other parts of the entertainment industry as well. The result is a film that is not only bad but also a disappointment to those who expect better from the industry.

The practice of corruption in Hollywood leads to a number of problems. First, it results in a film that is not only bad but also a disappointment to those who expect better from the industry. St. Joseph’s Guest Houses

In the 15th century and throughout the 16th century, religious houses supported the mission work of the Church. The first religious houses in the United States were the Ursuline Convent in New Orleans, Louisiana, and the Ursuline Convent in Quebec, Canada. The Ursuline Convent in New Orleans was founded in 1727 by the Ursuline Sisters of the Congregation of Notre-Dame de Paris, and the Ursuline Convent in Quebec was founded in 1753 by the Ursuline Sisters of the Congregation of Notre-Dame de Paris. These religious houses provided education and care for the poor and sick, as well as support for the mission work of the Church.

\textbf{Dig Tunnel of Hope, Priest Tells CYO Members}

\textbf{Newark} — About 1,200 persons from CYO units throughout the Newark Archdiocese packed St. Patrick's Basilica yesterday to hear the annual Tunnel of Hope through the black mountain of juvenile delinquency. The highlight of the evening was the recognition of Father Edward J. Kelly, pastor of Holy Cross Church, and Edward F. Corbett, director of the Holy Cross CYO, as "the 20,000th people to help build this spiritual highway to heaven for our children, our homes, our community, and our nation."

\textbf{The Program} — In his talk, Father Kelly explained that the annual Tunnel of Hope has two objectives: 1) to bring home to all who participate the message of faith and hope and 2) to build a spiritual highway to heaven for all young people. Father Kelly emphasized that the importance of the Tunnel of Hope lies in the fact that it is a living example of the words of Christ: "If you lead the little ones to me, you lead me."

\textbf{Father Kelly’s Message} — "The Catholic Church in this country has been fighting the battle of juvenile delinquency for many years, and it has made significant progress. But we cannot afford to be complacent. We must continue to work tirelessly to provide a spiritual highway to heaven for all young people."

\textbf{Conclusion} — Father Kelly ended his talk by urging all present to continue their efforts in the fight against juvenile delinquency. He concluded by saying, "May God bless all those who work to build this spiritual highway to heaven for our children and our community. Amen."

Parochial School Articles

Dorothy by Superintendents

Westfield, N.J., Oct. 21 — Catholics school superintendents convened here with two reports national synod articles which may help parochial schools deal with the present status and view of the American Catholic educational system.

The school superintendents, in a statement adopted at a morning meeting in the University of Notre Dame's Memorial Hall, praised articles on Catholic education in Look and the Saturday Evening Post.

The said that the articles covered by these articles could lead to a fuller understanding of the function and place of the Church in education. He said that Church schools would have to stand up to the world.

"Nothing could be further from the mind of the Catholic superintendents as in the teaching of the Church. When it was an established by a charter..." he said, "the establishment of the Catholic school system..." and the religious education, which the Church is trying to improve.

Period Furniture Winning Fall Favor

Homemakers will find that this fall more than ever furniture is designed to blend different moods and periods into a harmonious decor. Shifting from scratch, replacing worn pieces or adding to present furniture, the shopping is made easier because of the variety, adaptability and beauty of new designs.

Designers of mass-stered furniture often look back to the Victorian age for inspiration this season. Love seats, sofas and lounge chairs feature the diamond tufting and rich fabrics that were once the symbol of "gentility."

BUT THE STUFF horsehair pieces that once graced front parlors have been modified for modern comfort. Today's cushioning is deep and buoyant. Latex foam rubber is the material frequently used, often with a fluffy layer of down or polyester fiberfill on top to create the soft, high-crowned profile. Fabrics include rich-hued velvets, antique satins, damasks, crested designs and silk-like blends. Many are pre-treated for soil and spot resistance. The high expanded vinyls are very much in evidence and are particularly easy to keep clean.

Colors range from burnished golds to turquoise shell shades such as black pearl and java brown. Reds are much in evidence — sometimes in combination with green and mustard.

Oak, that sturdy old-fashioned wood, is in the forefront this season. Birch, ash and teak are also used extensively, while walnut is less frequently seen than in former years.

MUCH MORE attention is being paid to the backs and sides of furniture, which is no longer made to be ranged against the walls. Sofas with exposed wood frames can often be used as room dividers because of their attractive look from any angle.

Chairs, too, are handsome in profile with curving arms, curved legs and soaring backs. Most of the lounges have hidden wheels. Many are set on pedestal bases of polished metal.

And a great number are accompanied by handsome ottomans.

Not all the fall lines are period pieces, of course. Contemporary looks are much in evidence, but it has more latitude than in previous seasons. Many of the modern pieces are Victorian in shape but with reclined bases to lighten the weight of the furniture and make it easier to fit into smaller-scaled rooms.

A room, once complete decorated and furnished, looks so naturally beautiful. So in keeping with your home. But how does it get that way? Most homemakers have a clear idea of their wants and wishes, but translating room-ideas into actual settings takes considerable training and experience. Gas Powered Laundry Pays Its Own Way

Automatically home - laundry equipment quickly pays for itself. A leading manufacturer recently estimated that families using automatic washers and dryers at home can save approximately $500 a year as compared with sending their wash to a commercial laundry.

For example, a $250 automatic washing machine with an average life of 10 years will be used in a typical home seven times per week. Normal service and repair expenses over the life of the machine will average $32.

AMORTIZING those costs over a 10-year period means that equipment costs about seven and a half cents per load and utilizes another six to seven cents per load. Most coin-operated laundries charge about 20 cents a load to which must be added cost of transportation to and from the store. This then shows a minimum cost for each load of around 36 cents at the coin-operated laundry.

By comparison, the cost of sending laundry to a commercial laundry has gone up 56% since 1949. Many of the better commercial laundries charge seven cents a pound for wet wash or 56 cents for an eight-pound load.

The homemaker who does her washing at home will save a minimum of 12 cents a load — or 46% — over what it would cost her to use a coin-operated machine. Compared with a commercial laundry, her savings are around $135 annually.

A room, once complete decorated and furnished, looks so naturally beautiful. So in keeping with your home.
The Hannon Philosophy
In Family Business

NEWARK — At 286 Broad St here just north of the Lackawanna Railroad, there’s a two-story blond brick building which expresses the confidence a father and his five sons have in the future of the small business concern.

Many years ago when each day was a struggle for survival, the senior Hannon made up his mind that some day he would have a beautiful store on Broad St., and that his family would all be a part of the business. Though normally a man of grudging nature, Hannon humbly allows that his success secret has been the raising of a large family, training them all in the business, and a unified effort toward the achievement of a common business goal.

Hannon learned the carpet business starting at the bottom. He was born in Yonkers, N.Y., and at 16 went to work in the old Alexander Smith rug plant there. Alexander Smith not being an unfamiliar name to him since both his parents and grandparents were employed there.

At first he tied loose rug fibers ends and later became a weaver, and while still a young man he left Yonkers and went to New York where he worked himself up from stock boy to rug salesman in the department stores. Later he came to Newark and worked for L. Hammerger and Co. and Xerzej’s before getting into business for himself.

Everyone Needs Own Corner

Few members of any family are exempt from paper work. Whether it’s for school, office or household, paper work requires a work center.

The efficiency of a work area depends on how well it is organized. All materials needed for the job should be within easy reach: cookbooks, storage boxes, scratch pads, bills, etc.

E.R. Cole Features
New Designs

PARAMUS — Now featuring one of America's most unusual collections of gracious living pieces, E.R. Cole continues to create enthusiastic approval for furniture that combines function and comfort with beauty—but without frigidity.

Staff designers at E.R. Cole wholeheartedly agree that the tempo of modern times be subdued in the home with accessories, wood and fabrics that tend to relieve tension rather than heighten it. Color, too, plays a vital role toward this aspect of home-decorating; and, if interesting, it needn’t be avoided by skilfully coordinating colors and patterns in harmony with taste and spirit, rather than clash in an atmosphere charged with the pomp of a circus.

Most important of all, however, are the basic pieces selected for dining, living and bedroom which should reflect intelligent borrowing from the past as well as the adventure-enticing, excitingly new and beautiful concepts of our American designers today.

E.R. Cole furniture, located on B-4 here, although primarily in the contemporary vein, is designed with the desirable versatility to take on the character of many period styles — including the new Mediterranean influence — with no more expense than the simplest addition of accessories, wall decor, lamps, etc. that contain the styling of the period which is desired.

Anniversary Plans Completed

NEWARK — Mel Horr of Lincoln and Carpet Factory Outlet has completed plans for the coming observance of the company's 97th anniversary.

In all their display rooms in Newark, Springfield, Denville and Asbury Park will be found nationally famous quality brands in the linoleum, carpeting and tile field such as Goodyear, Armstrong, and Congoleum-Nalco, in linoleum; Allen, Maple, Downs, Hightown, Barwick, Guliyan and Philadelphia in carpeting; Kentile and Robinson in tile.

Horn says he is looking forward enthusiastically to making this event a memorable one for the many thousand of customer-friends. Also to make known to others why for 47 years in a continuously owned family business they have enjoyed the gratification that can only come from serving — with fair dealing; a fully competent consulting service, and top craftsmanship has added thousands of friends to Linoleum and Carpet Factory Outlet.

Hampton House Of Montclair

MONTCLAIR — Hampton House of Montclair has been serving this and other suburban communities for almost 17 years. During this period the aim has been to build a reputation as a store where one could select, by which is meant in elegant selections, according to Carl E. Fish, president. Selections, styling and standards of doing business with the public have always been the prime concern, he continued.

With a firm foundation in the furniture business, Fish established Hampton House. He worked for his father who established the first furniture store in Morristown. This exposure and later seven years with the furniture department of L. Hamburger and Co., became the motivating forces to enter into the industry.

Associates of Fish who know his ardent love for golf, doubt that he played while attending the recent furniture show in High Point, N.C., his interest in furniture being even greater than his love for golf.

Focus on Beds In King Sizes

Healthful sleep equals luxurious comfort, as home fashions for fall focus on king-size beds and king-size bedding mattresses, like people, now come in a variety of sizes.

Recommendation is that the 5-6 or over man (or woman!) needs a king-size bed for proper restful sleep, but such is the human preferences for comfort, and particularly for comfort, that with suitable sizing, that the king-size bed will by no means be the exclusive prerogative of the tallest.

Increased interest in king-size mattresses and box springs, accompanied by steel frames and headboards in an extensive selection of materials, not only reflects the desire for healthful, comfortable sleep but also the current trend in home decor.

King-size headboards offer scope to designers who are borrowing from early New World styles, from Spanish-Mediterranean, Italian, French, traditional and even Victorian moods to create a more opulent look for living.

Best news for homemakers is that bed linens, blankets, bedspreads in the desired king sizes are now available in up to greater range of colors and patterns, for an important assist in making attractive home decorating easy.

Easy Ironing

Even though many garments today are made of fabrics that do not require ironing, it is surprising what a tough-pressed shirt will do to make them look their best.

The new automatic electric steam dryer from the dryer will do the really. Many have special settings for synthetic and wools and for fabrics. Higher settings take care of cottons, linens and home made wares.

We had to say "No" to this proud mother the other day. Her daughter was just starting to take lessons and we told this woman that the child would really be far better off with a less expensive piano to start out with. The mother couldn't believe her ears. But that's what we told her.

Moral: GRIFFITH can make more money on an expensive piano or organ but we can earn more friends by selling you what you need. Some people call this integrity... others call it reputation. We call it good business.

At Griffith's Piano Company we agree to make more money on an expensive piano or organ but we can earn more friends by selling you what you need. Some people call this integrity... others call it reputation. We call it good business.

It happens every day at a GRIFFITH Store. Come in soon... and see for yourself.

GRIFFITH is proud to feature Steinway, Winter, Wurlitzer, Chickering, Fischer, Weber and Hardman pianos; Wurlitzer and Lowrey organs; all models and finishes from $395 to $7500.

WASHINGTON (NC) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson has hailed the 15th annual observance of National Catholic Youth Week which will conclude Nov. 3.

"I wish for you a successful observance which will help to prepare your young people for the tasks that lie before them," he said in a message to the week's sponsor, the National Council of Catholic Youth, which is located here.

NOTING THE week's theme is "The Young Catholic in the Lay Apostolate," he commented:

"It is of vital importance to our country that our youth have before them constantly the enabling traditions of the past.

"New times and new problems demand new approaches to the world. But these approaches must not discard or exclude the moral values which we have inherited from those that have gone before us.

"He added that these moral values can best be taught "by active participation in the organization which exists to serve the aspirations of human beings.

ANOTHER statement issued in support of the week came from television news personality David Brinkley who said young today are subject to "negative publicity" which gives many persons a false picture of them.

"As a journalist," he said, "I may be more aware than some of the young Americans are far more sound, wholesome and devoted to their God, their country and their families than all of the ugly publicity would lead us to believe."

For Youth Week

JFK, Cardinal Laud Theme

"Your annual observance is a valuable reminder of the important role the young people of America play in community and family life. God bless the youth of the great good they accomplish," the President said.

IN COMMENTING on the theme, President Kennedy said: "The role of youth in today's apostolate is a real and special one. They are in a position by their example to influence society according to Catholic Christian ideals and to act as a link between the Church and civil society."

He added, "I hope the activities you have planned for this week will spread an awareness of the responsibility of our youth toward the major institutions of society—family, Church and State— and also in recreational, educational, economic and political affairs."

He concluded his message by extending his "best wishes for a fruitful and successful observance of this week by all young people of the National Council of Catholic Youth. May they meet and conquer the challenges of today's society."

CARDINAL Cushing called the observance theme "appropriate and challenging.

"Appropriate because of the emerging importance of the laity in the life of the Church. Challenging because the young people who will be influenced by your messages to them, will find in it a reminder of their present responsibilities as Catholic citizens and of their future potential, in a social order which will depend so much for its survival on their fidelity to the teachings of the Church," the Cardinal said.

"I pray with you and your fellow workers that your zealous labors for our young people may bear abundant and permanent fruit," Cardinal Cushing wrote in his message.

During the National Catholic Youth Week we salute the newly organized Chapter of the CYO of Queen of Peace Parish, North Arlington, and congratulate Father Raymond D. Aumack, Youth Councilor, on promoting the additional program for the young unmarried adults to age 26. This program sounds out the splendid local programs for teenagers sponsored by the North Arlington Recreation Commission and by other religious denominations in our Borough for the social, cultural and spiritual betterment of our youth, our community and our nation.

PETER R. TONNER, MAYOR
BOROUGH OF NORTH ARLINGTON

The task of equipping our youth for the challenging responsibilities that face them in our complex, ever-changing society requires the mobilization of both our public and private resources. Youth is the nation's most precious asset and the social development of this human capital is essential to the preservation of our democratic form of government. The CYO is making a tremendous contribution to the national welfare by helping our young people develop into men and women of character and purpose. The CYO programs are of inestimable value in preparing our young people to assume a useful place in society and fulfill their obligations to God and their neighbor.

The CYO has been a tremendous influence for good as exemplified by boys and girls with resultant benefits to the whole nation.

JOSEPH G. MINISH

Colorful Floor Coverings Are Also Practical

When it comes to decorating, the floor is the first, wall to wall carpeting and area rugs each have their champions—but on one point both sides are agreed. Wall to wall or area rug, the floor covering must be colorful. Color on the floor has been steadily gaining in popularity as new fibers and finishes introduce soil and stain resistance and easy cleaning to make colorful carpets practical. This fall color takes the floor in deep, rich tones. Vibrant reds and blues reflect the Mediterranean influence. Bold greens and blue-green combinations, shades of yellow and orange and even vivid pink make color news in carpeting.

More aks to the neutral box but still with richness and depth are smoky charcoals, earthy browns, olive, rust, gold and bronze. Interesting textures add to the opulent air in carpeting.

Home Furnishings
Remove Barriers Of Time, Culture

Furniture fashion circles today are ruled by an international set, a democratic design circle that knows no language barrier, no limitations of time or culture. The origin of one fashion favorite was a sun-bathed Spanish town, another was to a historic manor born. Some were conceived by ancient seas; others came to life by a struggling people fighting for survival in a new land. Whatever the ancestry, this worldly riche of style setters requires two things of a design: it must be good. Be it stark or elaborate, homespun or aristocratic, it must represent design excellence. Secondly, it must have a public demand.

The diversified tastes of the American public created the demand; the beauty and quality of furniture offered today is testimony enough to the design worthiness.

Colorful influence on fall furniture is expressed in a wealth of architectural details. Latte or fretwork effects, graceful columns and arched framed panels and moldings emphasize the classic, architectural feeling at home.

Bel-Aire Homes Add More Living Space

A Chervnos-Carroll Release

LODI (FPS) — Bel Aire Homes, one of the largest custom home builders for lot owners in the East, is incorporating new ideas, and expanding on old ones to make their homes more comfortable and more convenient. According to Earl Martin, Bel-Aire Vice President, "Changing needs for the American family are being created by a trend towards larger families and a demand for more livable space in homes."

AMONG 10 examples of innovations which lot owners can get in the new Bel Aire homes are more storage space created by use of built-ins and more closets, and by more judicious use of "natural" storage space in such places as utility rooms and garages. Many homes are being readied by Bel Aire, with carpenters replacing garages, and the cost savings being diverted into better facilities for recreation and family rooms.

MARTIN also said that the demand for separate dining rooms at least as great as at any time since Bel Aire started custom building. This is another facility included in many of Bel Aire's new models.

CONVENIENT TO ALL FACILITIES

Close to school shopping centers and all types of recreation within a short drive are country clubs, golf courses and the new golf course at Whippety-Hole, nestled in the hills of the Palisades, all just about 10 minutes from New York City.
