NCWC Urges Efforts To Wipe Out Poverty

NEWARK -- The bishops of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania have called in an open letter to the president of the United States for a nationwide "war on poverty".

"If the great unifying war of our generation is against poverty, it will be won or lost in the United States," the bishops said in a letter to President Gerald R. Ford.

"We believe it is possible in this generation to deplete the ranks of the poor through just and fair economic policies and programs," the bishops said.

The bishops said they are convinced that "the war against poverty is more likely to bring about a new world order of economic justice than any other issue of equal importance that now faces mankind in his search for peace and security.

"We are writing in this war against poverty to the American people because we see in the war against poverty the only hope for a lasting peace.

"We ask you to join with us and with all of your fellow Americans in this war against poverty that is, in fact, the war of our generation against one of the most inhuman social injustices of our time."

The bishops' letter was released in Philadelphia by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

The new rule was established after the provincial synod of the archdiocese of Boston recently gave Bishop Burke the power to make such changes. Until now, all priests going back to school for further education had to take the same courses.

Spanish Proposal Is Sent to Vatican

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Holy See has received the text of a proposal regarding religious freedom in Spain from the United States government.

The proposal, which was sent to the Holy See on behalf of the United States government, was received by the Holy See's representative in the United States, Mgr. James M. McMenamin, on behalf of Pope John XXIII. The proposal was intended to outline the United States' position on religious freedom in Spain, particularly with regard to the treatment of Roman Catholics and other religious groups in the country.

The proposal emphasized the importance of religious liberty and the need for a respectful and just treatment of all religious groups in Spain. It called for the protection of religious freedom as a fundamental right and expressed concern about any restrictions on religious activities or beliefs.

The proposal also noted the United States' commitment to supporting religious freedom around the world and its efforts to promote human rights and democratic values. It expressed hope that the Holy See would consider the proposal and work towards a resolution that would benefit all citizens of Spain, regardless of their religious beliefs.
Evil in the House

Statistical reports by government agencies indicate that not all federal agencies are motivated by an unquenchable desire to do good. In fact, the increase in crime is a matter of concern to the federal government. The New York metropolitan area has experienced a rise in crime rates. The New York Times recently reported that the number of violent crimes in the area has tripled since last year.

The Task before the Council

Last week Archbishop Cardinal was called to a meeting of his church and gave them a commission to go to the Vatican Congress II. His speeches, to mobilize the old and all its acolytes.

The ONE FACT that stands out must be of paramount importance in this storm. It has been a hundred years since the last council, and we are still waiting for the next one. The Church has not yet taken place due to new discoveries, inventions, and the advances in science, education, and society.

We are unable to believe that the truth is the fact the Church opens in every age, but the conditions vary vastly and influence the interpretation by any church. Some of us are confronted with the truth not only that over 30% of our population engage in crime, none of us engage in crime.

This is a simple fact that must be acknowledged by all of us. We are all engaged in crime, and the Church must come to terms with it.

The New York Times recently reported that the number of violent crimes in the area has tripled since last year.

Sparking Never Cured a Cold

By ANN BUCKLEY

Anyone who has ever known the monster of a cold should know that it is a disease that affects the body in many ways. A cold can cause a variety of symptoms such as fever, chills, and muscle pain. It can also cause a runny nose, congestion, and a cough.

The conclusion drawn from the study is that a cold is not cured by sparking. This conclusion is based on the fact that sparking does not have any effect on the virus that causes a cold.

We will continue to monitor the situation and report any new findings as they become available.

Capharnaum Story

Ends on Sad Note

Our Lord had said to them, “I tell you, you are the salt of the earth. But if the salt lose its saltiness, how shall it be seasoned? It is good for nothing but to be thrown out and be trampled under foot by men.”

Yes, he knew, their pure, unspoiled, uncorrupted saltiness was all that they possessed; and he knew that he must take it away from them if they were to be saved. He knew that he must take it away from them if they were to be saved.

Our Lord had said to them, “I tell you, you are the light of the world. A city that is set on a hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle and put it under a bushel, but upon a candlestick, and it giveth light unto all that are in the house.”

The light of the world is the Church, and the candle is the light within us. We must share our light with others, not hide it away. We must be the light of the world, not hide it away.

An Archbishop's Dilemma: When to Act on Racial Discrimination

CAPE TOWN (AP) — South African Cardinal Anton Willems, in a letter to his fellow cardinals, said he had decided not to use his powers as archbishop to protest against racial discrimination in the country.

THE CARDINAL acknowledged that the issue of racial discrimination is a sensitive one in South Africa, where the Catholic Church has a long history of involvement in efforts to promote justice and equality.

In a letter to the Vatican, the cardinal said he had concluded that the best way to address the issue was through dialogue and engagement with the government and other stakeholders.

"I have decided that it is time to take a more active role in the fight against injustice," the cardinal said.

He added that he would continue to use his influence to promote human rights and social justice, but that he would no longer use his powers as archbishop to take direct action against racial discrimination.

The cardinal's decision was met with mixed reactions from members of the Catholic Church in South Africa.

Some Church leaders praised the cardinal for his decision, while others criticized him for not doing more to challenge the government's policies.

The cardinal's letter was published shortly after the release of the report of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission, which recommended a number of measures to address the legacy of apartheid and promote reconciliation.

The cardinal said he hoped his decision would be seen as a sign of his commitment to the principles of the commission and to the process of national healing.

He added that he would continue to work with other Church leaders and stakeholders to promote justice and equality in South Africa.

The cardinal's letter was published in the local Catholic newspaper, The Advocate, on February 27, 1986.

Dutch Argue Success to Throne

THE HAGUE, March 22 (AP) - President-elect William Van Houten, speaking for the nation's Safety and Defense Minister, said today that a Dutch "mission" to the United Nations should be sent to try to save the United States from its current crisis.

He suggested that such a mission could be sent immediately to the United Nations, where the United States is represented, and that it could serve to help the United States to avoid a crisis.

He added that the mission should be composed of high-ranking military and political figures, and should be headed by a Dutch diplomat or military figure.

Housing Needs Should Determine Integration

By RUTH W. REELLY

The house next door has always been occupied. Now men are talking about moving in. We have been told that in a few more years we have occupied the entire block on the west side of our street. Perhaps this is the reason for the war on housing in the city. For the last few years we have been told that the city was the center of the state. So we have accused our landlords of not giving us the best of services or assignments for our money. Yet we know, who bought property in a city to sell it for a profit. We realize that our neighbors talk when they come into our block. They talk about their affairs and ours. We have a very loose neighborhood, and I think it is a very loose neighborhood.

Text of NCWC Statement Asking End to Poverty

NCWC News Service

Following is the text of the statement issued by the Social Action Committee of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops in Washington, D.C., on the 30th anniversary of the release of Pope Paul VI's encyclical, "Populorum Progressio," on the occasion of the 130th anniversary of the birthday of St. Vincent de Paul.

I. The Church and Poverty

Pope Paul VI, in his encyclical "Populorum Progressio," stated: "God's own children, poor men and women, are being held in subjection. They are kept in that condition, and even made worse by the rich, who exploit them. This is not due to the will of God, which is always merciful. It is due to our own faults. This is a moral as well as a political matter. It is the responsibility of all those who have power, and especially of the leaders of nations who have the Christian faith."

II. Individual Religious Commitment

We are deeply concerned that: "In our own lifetime we have seen, in the name of changed conditions, the destruction of the human being without the realization of any discriminations. It is recognized, however, that the conditions of the human being are, in fact, not changed; the people may be liberated from one form of oppression, but they have suffered another one."

III. Social Challenges

We are concerned about: "The apathy of the rich and the indifference of the powerful toward the misery of the poor." The Church has in its social teaching of the past thirty years made the poorest and the most destitute persons it has ever seen. The world has a duty to help them who need help."

"We are deeply concerned that: "We do not have a Christian attitude toward the poor. We do not want to help them."

"We are deeply concerned that: "We have heard the words of the poor and the people." The Church has heard the cry of the poor and the people.

"We are deeply concerned that: "There are no poor among us."

"We are deeply concerned that: "There is no problem that cannot be solved."

To Give Petrean Medal To Cardinal Cushing

JERSEY CITY — Richard C. Cardinal Cushing, Archbishop of Boston, will receive the Petrean Medal when he lectures at St. Peter’s College Feb. 28 on the Sacred Council. The presentation will be made to him as a Bishop, which takes place later this year. He will be the third to receive the distinction. Previous recipients were Father Francesc de Borja, S.J., president of Boston College, and Rev. Robert J. Brown, S.J., former dean of St. Peter’s.

A TYPICAL academic ceremony will be held for the Cardinal on the evening of Feb. 27 in the auditorium of the Cathedral High School, formerly the Tabor Academy. Father Hughes will be present throughout. There will be a beautiful reception after the 10 a.m. lecture, in Boston and the Cathedral. Cardinal Cushing’s talk will be the second in a series of five to be given on the council this spring by the New England Anti-Abortion League. "Kerr’s Sacrifice in Vienna on April 9 and Love-Fourth-Century Doctors of Belgrade 9th are the subjects of the others.

The SERIES opened Feb. 19 with Rev. Joseph F. Murphy, C.S.C., a member of the faculty, who spoke on the theology of the council.

Father Hughes described the council as an effort to upgrade the Church, which had been "in a state of stagnation for too many years. It is a startling realization of the Church’s life."

Father Murray pointed out that the council will end in next year, which will be quite different in pace and approach from the first four years.

SUNDAY, MARCH 6

DURING 1963 the Catholic Church in North Jersey completed nearly $35 million worth of new buildings, more than in any other single year in the past.

The expenditure was made in bringing to completion a total of 54 new buildings, 33 in the Newark Archdiocese, 21 in the Paterson Diocese.

This means that in the past seven years, since The Advocate has been publishing its annual Building Supplement, more than 350 new buildings have been completed for and by Catholics in North Jersey at a cost of an estimated $165 million.

Well over 100 additional new buildings are under construction or on the planning boards.

There are dramatic indications that the building boom in Catholic North Jersey has come nowhere near ebb tide. The $6 million "Program for Progress" in the Paterson Diocese, launched by Bishop Navagh last month, is one. The expansion of the plans under the Newark Archdiocesan Development Campaign, launched three years ago, is another. Still another is progression of the crest of the boom to new areas -- Newark's Union County and Paterson's Morris displaced Bergen from its spot as the fastest-growing county in the matter of construction under Catholic auspices. Union County made the largest investment -- $14,327,000 to complete 12 new buildings, Morris topped all counties in the number of construction units completed in 1963 -- 13 buildings costing $4,517,000.

In the Newark Archdiocese some $28.5 million was spent on buildings completed in 1963. Of the 33 new buildings, 10 were either new high schools, additions to existing high schools or high school faculty residences. Next in priority were grade schools or school additions and seven more were buildings to house grade school faculty members. Yet in Newark's future, churches loom as a big item -- at least 18 of them are under way or planned. A score of new grammar school buildings are in the works too, and high school construction will continue prominent, with 11 proposed buildings earmarked for their use.

Grade school buildings were the top item in the Paterson Diocese -- five school buildings and three convents -- but in the buildings planned for the future there are at least five high school facilities, including two completely new schools where none existed before. The largest single project now underway is Paterson's St. Joseph's Hospital, expanding to the tune of $4.7 million.

Two new seminary buildings are on the way -- a new minor seminary for Paterson and an addition to Newark's major seminary.

In tribute to the Catholics of North Jersey, their priests and pastors who have led them in this colossal undertaking, The Advocate presents this seventh annual Building Supplement.

AT THE MOMENT Paterson's
prospects then for Paterson's school appear a question of a million.
The goal is planning for the new secondary school to raise the ratio of pupils to profinancing the number of pupils at this totally in the other areas of the cento the world. This was realized last fall when Pope Paul Six issued his special commission recommending the new school which will be for the establishment of secondary education.
The goal in building the high school is to build a Catholic high school education to every Catholic youth of its age.
This is the dream of a Catholic
High School at this time. It will get its first Catholic high school education to our children.

THE PURPOSE of the "Program for Progress" is to make Pater- son takes over the stocks of the old new building. It is completed in 1965. Its silver anniversary year. It looks forward to a larger campus whose space is set by its largest program for progress yet.

"The Music Center of New Jersey"
Six of Newark's Development Drive Schools Open

By ED GRANT

It was only a week ago this year that Archbishop Bolel founded the Archdiocesan Development Campaign with a goal of $42,000,000 to aid the archdiocese in building new schools, and this week another $30,000,000 has been added to the total. This brought the total of the Development Drive to over $72,000,000. The campaign is now nearing its end, and the archdiocese is expecting to surpass the $72,000,000 goal.

The campaign has been successful in getting the support of the majority of the archdiocese's parishes and schools. The parishes have been instrumental in raising the money, and the schools have been a major source of funding. The campaign has been focused on building new schools and improving existing ones. The archdiocese has been working to ensure that every child has access to a quality education. The Development Drive is an important step in achieving this goal.

CONCRETE RESULTS - Archbishop Bolel lays the cornerstone of the newest in Union Catholic High School, one of three new schools in the archdiocese which will open in the fall of 1965.

The first school opened in the archdiocese was at Orange, New Jersey, in 1963. The second school was built in Jersey City in 1964, and the third school will open in 1965. The schools are all located in areas where there is a high demand for quality education. The new schools will provide a much-needed boost to the archdiocese's educational efforts.

$14 Million in New Buildings for Union Catholic

Union County moved into the next century with the fastest growing county in the Newark area. In a short span of time, the county has seen a dramatic increase in population, economy, and infrastructure. A total of 112 new buildings costing $14 million were completed for Union Catholic, placing the county for the first time ahead of Bergen, which has been the leader for the last few years. The $14 million was spent on schools, homes, mansions, land, and a new Church in Plainfield.

Schools

The largest addition to the school facilities comes in the form of a new school building in Plainfield, which is a vast improvement over the old building. The new school is designed to accommodate 250 students, and will be completed by next fall. It is expected to be one of the finest school buildings in the state.

Churches

A new church has been completed in Roselle, and another in Scotch Plains. The new church in Roselle is a beautiful structure, designed to accommodate 500 parishioners. It is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Homes

Several new homes have been completed in the county, including a mansion in Berkeley and a home in New Jersey. These homes are designed to accommodate large families, with spacious bedrooms and modern amenities.

Mansions

A new mansion has been completed in Westfield, which is expected to be one of the finest in the county. It is designed to accommodate 200 guests, and includes a large ballroom and several bedrooms.

Land

A large tract of land has been purchased in Union County, which is expected to be developed into a new housing community. The land was purchased for $5 million, and is expected to be developed over the next several years.

BERGEN BUILT 102 UNITS IN SEVEN YEARS

Bergen County's building boom is being featured in a new Voting Building Development brochure which was made available to the public last week. The brochure was compiled by the Bergen County Building Development Department, which has been active in the construction of new buildings in the county since 1952.

The brochure contains a detailed list of all the buildings constructed by the Bergen County Building Development Department, including the date of completion, the number of units, and the cost of construction. The brochure also includes a section on the history of Bergen County's building boom, with a timeline of significant construction projects.

In addition to the new Voting Building Development brochure, the Bergen County Building Development Department has also released a new guide to the Bergen County Building Code, which outlines the regulations for building construction in the county.
Five buildings costing nearly $3 million were completed last year. The buildings are: the new student-union building of Seton Hall University, South Orange; the Monastery of the Sisters of Notre Dame, Camden; the John T. O'Gara, O.S.B., third-story additions to Sacred Heart School, Montclair; the cooling tower and auxiliary facilities of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, Newark; and the chapel for the Brothers of Holy Cross in Mount St. Dominic, Caldwell.

The student-union building is the first project of the $5 million master plan to be completed. It is expected in early 1965. The auditorium has a capacity of 450 persons, and the student-union is 95,000 square feet. The building will house classrooms, offices, laboratories, a student center and a dining room.

The Monastery of the Sisters of Notre Dame, Camden, was completed in 1963. It houses nine nuns and includes living quarters, a chapel, a library and a sickroom.

The John T. O'Gara, O.S.B., third-story additions to Sacred Heart School, Montclair, were completed in May. The additions include additional classrooms, a cafeteria, a kitchenette and a lounge.

The new tower and auxiliary facilities of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, Newark, were completed in 1963. The tower includes a 450-seat auditorium and auxiliary facilities.

The new chapel for the Brothers of Holy Cross in Montclair was completed in 1963. It is the first building on the campus dedicated for Brothers of Holy Cross use.

Hospitals Have $17 Million Construction Program

Catholic hospitals have invested $17 million in new construction and additions to maintain and improve service to the community. Several recent additions have been dedicated to serve the health needs of the modern community with ever increasing efficiency.

The largest project completed in 1962 was the last of a three-stage, $10 million program begun in 1953 at St. Vincent's Hospital in Jersey City. It raised the $10 million hospital to a modern medical center.

Another $1 million hospital was formally dedicated last May. A new nurses' residence and St. Vincent's Hospital, Jersey City, close to $400,000 and the addition of a second story to the nursing home was $350,000.

St. Mary's Hospital, Parnovo, added all the first part of its new building to serve the en-

The new building program, which includes the construction of a new wing and the remodeling of an existing wing of the old hospital, was started in 1961.

A new educational center was completed in May, 1964, at a cost of $1 million, and the new hospital was opened in July.

Today a lowering elevator structure of glass and black brick extends to the 7th floor, from the lobby and within the second floor extending to the old hospital.

The third floor is devoted exclusively to intensive care patients, mostly cancer patients. Large rooms are equipped with the most modern treatment methods, from X-rays to chemotherapy, and there is a large staff of specialists.

Cheers for Vailsburg's $2 Million School

By JOE JOYCE

The $2,000,000-plus school built in Vailsburg will be an asset to the area as it provides specialized education for special children training in various vocations. The main entrance to the school will be at the lower level on the west side of the school. To the right is the main entrance with an automatic door and an alarm system. The gymnasium will be located in the basement level.

The school building, with its modern design, will be the center of attention for the community. The classrooms will be equipped with the latest in educational technology, including computers and interactive whiteboards. The building will have a central courtyard, which will provide a space for outdoor activities and a place for students to relax.

The school will be constructed according to the latest in educational guidelines and will include a media center, a library, and a cafeteria. The school will also have a music room, a dance studio, and a science lab.

The school is scheduled to open in the fall of 2024, and the community is excited about the opportunities it will bring. The school will be a major asset to the Vailsburg community, providing a high-quality education for all students.

The school is a testament to the commitment of the community to provide a quality education for all its children. With its modern design and up-to-date facilities, the school will be a shining example of how the community can come together to support its children.
