Trend to Evil in Films

Cited by U.S. Bishops

New York — Good and evil continue to be treated jointly in the motion picture industry, a commission of U.S. Bishops said. The commission, which celebrated the 50th anniversary of the Vatican Council II, said the bishops found a "style of evil" in a number of films, but noted that a "thoroughgoing change" had prevented "the usual excesses." "But the battle is far from over. Many evil influences still need to be made to the foundations of the teaching and influence," the commission said.

AT THE SAME TIME they noted, "powerful factors of evil...Hollywood..." and the "ratings system" are "progress of the power," the commission said. "The battle is far from over. Many evil influences still need to be made to the foundations of the teaching and influence."

American Council Role

JERSEY CITY — The salutary and American purpose of the second session of the Vatican Council was called to the attention of bishops and religious and Pius XII in Jersey City, N.Y., April 10.

The American Legion, in the capacity of a national group, gave two talks in an earlier series at the Jersey City church, on April 10. The talks were addressed to the American Legion as a whole and to the Legion of Honor.

The Legion of Honor was founded in 1961, and has been active in the Legion of Honor since its inception.

CARDINAL KÖNIG in his opening address, said the American Legion was quite represented in the Legion of Honor during the first years of the opening session in 1961.

At the end of that session, the Legion of Honor was established as a national group, and it was encouraged to continue in the Legion of Honor.

THE COUNCIL had the most striking thing about the Legion of Honor being its open membership. The Legion of Honor was compared to the holy apostles, which the Legion of Honor could be in the future one which recognizes the Legion of Honor.

While generally speaking the Legion of Honor is open to all the Legion of Honor, the Legion of Honor will be closed to the Legion of Honor.

The Legion of Honor was established as a national group, and the Legion of Honor is open to all the Legion of Honor.

The Pope said he would be a partner in the "opening of the world," an expression of the opening of the Church to the world and of the world to the Church. He called for an "opening of the heart" to each other, to people of different beliefs and cultures.

He also said he would be a "partner in the truth," working for justice, peace, and the common good, and for the protection of the environment.

The Pope said he would be a "partner in the service," serving the Church and the world, and for the poor and the marginalized.

He called for a "partnership in dialogue," to build bridges among different cultures and religions, and to promote understanding and mutual respect.

The Pope said he would be a "partner in prayer," to seek God's guidance and wisdom in all his actions.

He called for a "partnership in hope," to believe in the future and to work for a better world.

He said he would be a "partner in mission," to go out to all who are in need and to bring them the message of hope and salvation.

The Pope said he would be a "partner in beauty," to beauty and to the pursuit of excellence in all that is good and true.

He called for a "partnership in love," to love God and to love one another, and to spread love and kindness.

The Pope said he would be a "partner in work," to work for the common good and to protect the environment.

He called for a "partnership in joy," to find joy in all that is good and true, and to share joy with others.

He said he would be a "partner in faith," to believe in the power of faith and to promote faith and spirituality.

The Pope said he would be a "partner in hope," to seek hope and to promote hope in all that is good and true.

He called for a "partnership in creativity," to create and to promote creativity in all forms.

Text of a Statement by the U.S. Bishops' Committee

NOW: News Service

The creation of the National Legions of Decency 50 years ago was a landmark in the history of the Catholic Church in America. This significant event marked the beginning of a national effort to assist the faithful in their spiritual and moral development. These efforts, which have continued to this day, are aimed at fostering an environment where the teachings of the Church can be effectively communicated and understood.

The National Legions of Decency were organized in 1933 and have since become a significant part of the Catholic Church's efforts to promote the values of the Gospel in the public sphere. The Legions work to prevent the depiction of邪恶内容 in films and other media, and to ensure that such content is properly assessed and dealt with by the various organizations involved.

Today, the National Legions of Decency continue to serve as a vital force in the work of the Church, providing a voice for the faithful in the public arena and working to promote the values of the Gospel in a world that is more complex and diverse than ever before.

certain places. These efforts and shows of support in the area of decent movie entertainment would seem to be self-defeating if they are designed only to garner recognition or acceptance, rather than to effect any change in the production or exhibition of objectionable movies. The Legion of Decency has had many more success stories in the area of decent movie entertainment than it has in the area of producing better movies. This is a sign that the Legion of Decency has been successful in bringing about a change in the production or exhibition of objectionable movies. Too Much Ecumenism?

Aphorisms have been expressed by some that the ecumenical movement has been plagued with the same unfortunate results for the Church's apostolate as to support reforms that could result in a new, fully integrated, fully religious culture. Measures that would change the Church's nature have been rejected. This has frequently been an unfortunate trend. The Church's role in society has been significantly altered. Unfortunately, this role has been altered in a negative way. The Church has been forced to submit to the demands of modern society. This has led to a loss of influence and a decrease in the Church's ability to fulfill its mission.

The New Ecumenism can never be allowed to degenerate into the old in a manner of speaking. The Church, and all Catholics as members of the Church, still have the sacred duty of defending the Church's message of instructing interested Catholics (and all other Christians) in traditional Catholic teaching. Any such attitude would be a betrayal of our apostolic mandate.

This perilous situation must be combated, even if at times with difficulty, because the ecumenical spirit, whose origins are equally ancient, stemming from the ecumenical councils, is based on the chief ecumenical objective of the present day: the consummation of union with the apostolic See in union with the ancient See of Rome without any essential compromise.

Cain’s Answer

In the fourth chapter of Genesis, there is one of the earliest recorded dialogues between men. Over the slaughters that have been inflicted on their neighbors, God asks Cain, "Am I my brother’s killer?" It is a query that has been raised incessantly from that day to this.

In the last of four acts, three drown in the sea of shame and guilt that seek to destroy them. Cain is told that he will be pursued, that he will be driven from the land of his origin. The black cloud of Cain's guilt is lifted, but only to descend upon his descendants. Cain will be expelled from the land of his origin.

There is much more to this story. Cain’s dialogue with God, and with the Lord, is a dialogue that explores the human condition. Cain is driven by his own passions, driven by his own desires, driven by his own fears. Cain is driven by his own pride.

Was They Special?

One of our leading Eastern colleges has been expressly ordered by the people of America that the students of the college shall not have any special rights in the life of the college. This college has been ordered by the people of America to be treated as all other colleges. This college shall not have any special rights.

The message is clear, the people of America are demanding that all colleges be treated equally. This college is being treated equally with all other colleges. The people of America are demanding that all colleges be treated equally.

Christ Calls Peter

In the Kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ, the apostles would be permitted to enter the kingdom of God. They would be permitted to enter the kingdom of God, but only if they had the power to command and control. Only if they had the power to command and control would they be permitted to enter the kingdom of God. Only if they had the power to command and control would they be permitted to enter the kingdom of God.

Peter could do with nothing else. He was not a master of his fate. He was not a master of his own actions. He was not a master of his own destiny. He was not a master of his own thoughts. He was not a master of his own words. He was not a master of his own actions.

To Peter it would only help to think of himself as a king. To Peter it would only help to think of himself as a king. To Peter it would only help to think of himself as a king.

ONE WAY TO UNLEASH THE POTENTIAL OF A DWELLING

Dear Sirs:

In your previous letter, you mentioned the importance of using the mind as a tool for self-improvement. I fully agree with your view. In my opinion, the mind is the most powerful tool we have to achieve success in life. It is through our minds that we can think, learn, and grow. Therefore, it is essential to take care of our minds and make them our most powerful assets.

Sex Classes Called 'License'

Editor:

On May 13, 1964, there was an article in the GARY FULTON (St. John's Register) under the headline "Fathers of public school teachers say the plan to have sex classes in the public schools would make their job more difficult." The article stated that the sex classes would make it more difficult for the teachers to maintain discipline in the classroom, and that it would be difficult for the teachers to explain the concepts of sex to the children.

The author, who is a member of the St. John's Board of Education, stated that the sex classes would be difficult for the teachers to explain to the children, and that it would be difficult for the teachers to maintain discipline in the classroom. The author stated that the sex classes would be a burden on the teachers, and that it would be difficult for the teachers to explain the concepts of sex to the children.

Milestone for Men's Choir
Is Cause for Celebration

BEVERLY - When a parish reaches its 115th anniversary, it is usual for celebrations to be planned. And so it is with the Second Congregational Church here where the church has reached its 115th year.

The church is the home of the Beverly Men's Choir, which will hold a special celebration on Sunday at 10 a.m., with a 115th anniversary musical service. The service will be followed by refreshments in the church hall.

The choir, which has been in existence since 1925, will be joined by the Beverly Women's Chorus and the Beverly Youth Chorus in the celebration. The choir has been active in the community, performing at numerous events and services.

The choir will be conducted by Dr. Robert E. Baker, who has served as director for the past 25 years. Mr. Baker has been a member of the choir since it was founded.

The event is open to the public, and all are invited to attend.

The Beverly Men's Choir has a rich history of service and dedication to the community. It is a testament to the dedication of its members and their commitment to their faith and their community.
Formulas for CCD Success: It's Everybody's Job

UNION CITY - Based on the faith that religious instruction in the classroom of the entire student body in grade school is as important as the teaching of secular information, the United Methodist Church has been working to implement such programs.

The program is not new, but the widespread recognition of its importance has. As a result, many schools are now implementing such programs, and many others are planning to do so in the near future.

The program is designed to teach the children in the school about their faith and to help them understand the importance of their religious beliefs.

The program is not limited to religious instruction, but also includes activities that will help the children develop their own beliefs and values.

The program is not intended to replace the traditional religious instruction that occurs in the classroom, but rather to complement it and provide a more comprehensive approach to teaching religion.

The program is not without its critics, but the benefits of such programs are recognized by many educators and religious leaders.

The program is an important step in the right direction, and it should be encouraged and supported by all who care about the future of our children and the future of our society.

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The Catholic Bishops of the District of Columbia have taken over the leadership of the late Bishop James H. O'Donovan's mission in Brazil. The mission, in the heart of the Brazilian sugar cane fields, has been called for by Bishop Frank Slattery of Philadelphia.

The Rev. Brian O'Sullivan, who was the late Bishop's chaplain, told the Bishops that the mission has been suspended due to the death of Bishop O'Donovan, who was killed in an airplane crash in Brazil. The mission was started by Bishop O'Donovan in 1955, and he had been the mission's director since then.

The mission is located in the state of Pernambuco, and it serves the needs of the Brazilian sugar cane workers. The mission has been active in providing religious education, health care, and other services to the workers.

Paging Might Make It So

Connecticut, at the Rockefeller's birthday party. When I saw an article in the New York Times about his working on a vein and cancer research, I decided to send him a card. Dr. Gorenstein invited Leannah to New York to talk about the project and to encourage her to continue her efforts. She said, "Without his help, I could never have done it." Leannah, who claims she didn't know what a vein was before she began the project, showed the kind of exuberance that would be expected when she was asked about her work and the steps involved.

"She was 14 at the time. It was a huge project, but she handled it very well. She made many speeches, and she had to deal with very many people, including medical doctors, scientists, and laymen, all interested in her work." After two months, she dissected them. She added vegetables. "They were all good," she claims. "I was therefore encouraged to continue in the greater effort of the cancer work."

"For the last 10 days and nights, she has been able to eat no food whatever. She is very weak, but she is still able to carry on her work. She is now in her third year of college." "I thought she was going to die," Dr. Gorenstein said, "but she is now doing very well. She has been to the hospital and is now in her second year of college. She is doing well, and she is expected to graduate in the spring."}

PASCAL MEAL—Following the first day of wine or a postal card at termination, Mrs. Margaret Buczkowski, presents a bonus, another and another to the leader, Rev. Michael J. Green, who, when an attempt was made to check his cooperation, he said, "I'm not interested in my work. I'm interested in what you're doing."

Youths Urged to Vital Interest

St. Paterson's—Youth should become vitally involved in the two great issues of our times—the education and the war and peace problems. The Rev. Father Thomas J. Roberts, S.J., recently appointed to the post of director of the diocesan youth movement, spoke at Holy Family Academy April 12, as follows:

"I WOULD advise you, our Jesuit scholars, to find out all about what is involved in the matter of birth control, sterilization, and other pertinent matters relating to this vital problem. If you are not informed, you may be endangered by the forces which are engaged to spread the heresy."

"Not only is it not wise to talk about these matters casually, it is very dangerous to do so. As for the latter, it is very unwise to talk about these matters casually. It is very dangerous to do so."

"In conclusion, I would urge you to become vitally involved in the two great issues of our times. The education and the war and peace problems."

The same brand of collegiate baseball that is being played across the country will be in effect at the Sixth Catholic Trophy Tournament on April 15 when the two Catholic basement boys, Remsen High School of New York and St. Mary's High School of Baltimore, face off at the earliest stage of the tournament. The tourney is sponsored by the Catholic Men's Council.

In an effort to attract better teams to the Catholic Trophy tourney, the tournament committee has raised the purse from $500 to $1,000. The winning team will receive $500, with $250 going to the runner-up and $150 to the third place team.

The Catholic Trophy tourney is a direct result of the success of the Catholic High School Baseball League. The first tourney was held in 1937 when the Catholic High League of New York sponsored the event. Since then, the tourney has grown in popularity and has become one of the most prestigious tournaments in the country.

The Catholic Trophy tourney is open to any Catholic high school team in the United States. The tournament is divided into two brackets, with the winners of each bracket advancing to the championship game.

The Catholic Trophy tourney is a showcase for the best Catholic high school baseball teams in the country. The tourney is a great opportunity for teams to gain valuable experience and exposure.

The Catholic Trophy tourney is a great event for baseball fans and a great way to support Catholic high school baseball.

To Study Mass
At St. Paul's

JERSEY CITY - A study day on the Church will be held at St. Paul's, the Diocesan parish, April 19. It will be led by Rev. Anthony T. Pedersen, diocesan director of Cath-liturgy and Liturgical training at St. Joseph's. St.

Rev. Francis A. Hennessey, pastor of St. Paul's, has scheduled the study day to clarify the role and duties of Lay Pastors. The Reverend is certain that the lay people will attend the gathering of fifteen to twenty.
All clergy and members of the parishes are invited.

A series of talks by Father Hennessey at 2:00 p.m. will fo-budge and answer questions. The talks will deal with the principles of Lay Pastoral, understanding the Church's liturgical practices and responsibilities of today's Church.

"Serving the Public Since 1866"
Seton Hall University's spirit of cultural awareness "in the community will reach an impressive crescendo in its salute to New Jersey's Tercentenary."

The salute will take the form of a festival of the arts. April 19 to May 2, a series of events, including music, drama and painting, featuring N.J. artists and ranging in variety from Shakespeare to scripture readings to the Serendipity Workshop. Most of the events will be presented in the university's Little Theater. Student Center, which houses a million-dollar museum to the university's cultural enterprise, and named for the current president, Bishop Dougherty.

"Seton Hall is sponsoring the Festival of Arts primarily as an effort to bring to the citizens of N.J., the student body and alumni, an awareness of the magnificent cultural heritage of the Garden State throughout her 300 years of existence," said Msgr. Edward J. Fleming, the university's vice president.

The festival, which will include professional and student performers and productions, is the most extensive undertaking in a series of impressive cultural contributions made by the university during the term of Bishop Dougherty's presidency. These have included sponsorship of operatic productions with Metropolitan Opera stars, campus performances by Broadway and concert artists, the establishment of the university's museum, workshop theater, and experimental opera workshop.

Bishop Dougherty, perhaps as much as any college president in the country, has made a complete dedication to the fine arts and the performing arts," said Msgr. Fleming. "There has been a tremendous revival of interest and enthusiasm for the arts as a result."

One event of the festival will feature Bishop Dougherty himself. A foremost scripture scholar, he will give readings from the Bible as part of the April 23 program.

The festival will open on Sunday, April 19, at 3:30 p.m. with a Baroque chamber music concert featuring William Delk, Newark baritone, and Claude-Jean Chausson, Morris County harpsichordist. Melvin Strauss of Leonia will conduct selections from Bach, Mozart, Scarlatti, Purcell, Vivaldi and Barber.

On April 20 a series of prize-winning one-act plays will be presented in the student center's arena theater by finalists in the recent N.J. Little Theater League competition. The first-place winners, Upholdishash, will stage "The High Sign," the off-Broadway playwright Lewis John Carrellan; The Neighborhood Playmakers of Hawnbro will do Edward Albee's "American Dream" and the Philadelphians of Fanwood, Darr Blue's "Little Lady of Friday Night."

The first of two ballet performances will be given on April 21 in an evening program that will include the New Jersey Youth Ballet, the gifted 17-year-old pianist from Jersey City, Jane Benedict of Fanwood, national president of the Dance Federation. Music Club, as choreographer for a tercentenary ballet which will be performed by a group of student dancers.

The 200-voice Masterwork Chorus of Morris County coupled with Bach's Mass in B Minor under the direction of William L. Randolph in Archbishop Walsh Auditorium on April 22.

A four-part program for April 23 will include a showing of the film, "Julia Caesar," at 2:45 p.m. in the university's Little Theater, Bishop Dougherty's scripture readings at 8:30 p.m. in the student center, a conducted tour of the center's art gallery exhibiting 46 paintings by the 14-year-old Monmouth County artist, Henry Guth, and, finally, a recital by promising pianist Dennis Purcresse, 17, of Union, playing Beethoven, Chopin and Brahms.

Shakespeare in the Round will be the interesting offering on Saturday, April 25, when the Seton Hall Workshop Theater presents "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in the arena theater at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. It will be presented eight times in all, including evening performances on April 26 and 30 and May 1 and 2, and matinees April 29 (special for elementary school children) and May 2. It will honor not only the state centenary, but the 400th anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare.

Directed by Gilbert Ruthven, the production will feature Broadway and television actor Tom Wlashe (as Nick Bottom), the swordfighter, Tom Piscopo as Oberon, Jane Wilton as Queen Titania; Robert Steffannett (as Puck) and Alfred Bredy as Hermia.

Not the festival will launch into opera— with selections from "La Traviata" come by Carlos Brevea and Louise Natalie, bound by members of Seton Hall's opera theater group Oeuvres d'Amour and with the conductors. The program is scheduled for April 26 at 8 p.m.

At 4 p.m. on the 20th a museum lecture tour will be conducted by the museum director. Herbert C. Kraft. On view will be an exhibit series on the evolution of man, textbooks used in N.J. classrooms 100 years ago, and a display of Indian here.

The Festival of Arts will move on to a youth concert beginning at 11 a.m. on May 2, which promises to be a delightful paean of music and dance ranging from light classical to folk. Members of the N.J. Ballet Company, under direction of Carolyn Clark and Gerald Tejeda, will interpret Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf," "Don Quixote" by Tchaikovsky and "Hoe Down" by Gottschalk, in the student center.

Next will come a running bouquet by the bouncy nine Serendipity Singers in the Cathedral. Walbrook Auditorium May 2 at 8 p.m.

Finally, Fred Smoot, who travels with the Serendipity Singers, will do a comedy routine to close the festival.

None of the tickets for a performance exceed $2.50. Tickets for the series for two are $5.

Responsible for the arrangements of festivities were members of a special art festival committee with Bishop Dougherty as honorary chairman. Rev. Edward J. Larkin, Seton Hall's spiritual director, is executive chairman and Msgr. Fleming, executive co-chairman.

Other committee members are: Walter J. Cohrsen, chamber music director; Louis de Crommelin, director of the art gallery; Rev. Robert J. Fennell, director of student affairs; Rev. Joseph J. Jarenski, glee club director; Rev. William Keller, director of the humanities honors program; Kraft, Rathbon, and Robert U. Reilly, director of development.

Coordination is in the hands of the public relations office directed by Gene Collins, and the department of special events directed by John E. McGoughan.
