Advocate Price Is Going Up

The price of The Advocate is going up. But don't despair. Read on and we'll try to make the case that you'll be getting a better product.

Because of rising production costs and the increasing number of books and magazines which we will be required to go to the Bishop for approval, we are forced to increase the price of The Advocate to 10 cents, starting with the Sept. 3 issue.

The subscription price of $1.50 a year for 50 books or the paper weekly for ten weeks will be in effect from the first of September.

And there will be no extra charge for delivery department (Market 40700) or the use of carriages, and you will find your papers delivered promptly.

Governor Signs Bill On School Streets

TRENTON -- Gov. Richard J. Codey has signed a law which will make it possible for communities to create "School Streets," similar to the ones in many other states.

The law, which was introduced in the legislature this past session, was a response to the growing problem of traffic on school streets and high school streets.

It is designed to alleviate the long-standing policy in the state to limit the number of private vehicles on school streets.

The governor has also announced that he will sign a bill which will allow for the use of "School Streets" in the future.

Parish Adopting Advocate Plan

HACKENSACK -- St. Francis Xavier parish has become the latest in the Archdiocese of Newark to adopt The Advocate, the official publication of the Archdiocese of Newark.

The parish, which has a membership of over 500, has signed a subscription agreement to receive The Advocate.

Under the Complete Parish Program, all new members are required to subscribe to The Advocate.

Says Czech Parishioner Of Church Is Easing

By BL. BENEDICT ZIKRA, O.P.

The good news is that the Church is becoming a more attractive place for many people.

A large community of women and men have been attending the Church for the past two decades.

Some of them can now be found attending the Church as a result of their parents' firm commitment to the Church.

The author of this article, a native of Czechoslovakia, has become a member of the Church and has a large following among young people.

and the dilemmas with which it faces.

A CONTINUING evaluation of life and society in the light of "moral spiritual benefits, the Church's role in preserving and extending the Catholic Church is a major concern for many who see the Church as a "lifeline" to a lost generation. In an essay entitled "The Future of the Church in an Age of Secularization," John XXIII wrote: "The role of the Church is to be more than a "lifeline," it is to be a "lifeline" for all."

The Pope has always stressed the importance of the Church's role in society, and his message has been echoed by many other bishops and scholars. In his message, the Pope emphasized the importance of the Church's role in providing guidance and support to those who are searching for meaning and purpose in their lives.

Let us not forget that the Church is a living organism, and that its mission is to bring people closer to God and to each other. In this world, where we are often divided by our differences, the Church remains a unifying force, a place where we can come together to share our hopes and dreams.

The Pope's message is a call to action, a reminder that we must be vigilant in our efforts to preserve and extend the Church's role in society. It is a message that we must heed, and one that we must work to implement in our own lives and in our communities.

An Advocate News Summary

The world goes with more enthusiasm to the celebration of Canada's 100th anniversary. The Pope's first encyclical was introduced to the world last night in New York City as the Advocate began its coverage of the 100th anniversary. The encyclical was introduced in English and Italian by Pope Paul VI, who spoke in his native language. The Polish text was introduced by Cardinal Adam Merz, the Polish-born master of the papal court.

The encyclical, which is 10 pages long, is the Pope's first address to the world. It is a message of hope and encouragement, and it is designed to provide a framework for dialogue and understanding among nations.

The Pope's message is one of calling for a new era of understanding and cooperation among people of different cultures and beliefs. He calls for a new era of dialogue that will bring nations together and help to create a more peaceful world.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. The era whose ethos marked it as the "Golden Age of the Catholic Church" is coming to an end. "The Educational Revolution" was a growing movement in the 1950's and 1960's that saw a growing number of schools incorporate the laity into their administration. The laity, who had long been involved in Catholic education, became more involved in the day-to-day operations of the schools.

"The question of the control of schools has become a question of who is in charge," said University of Notre Dame's Rev. Donald J. Egan, S.J., a leading figure in the movement. "The laity are increasingly taking over decision-making roles in the schools."

The question of who should control schools is now being addressed in a new study by the National Catholic Educational Association (NCEA). The study, which is expected to be released in the fall, will examine the role of the laity in Catholic schools and provide recommendations for the future.

The study will focus on the role of the laity in decision-making, governance, and the curriculum. It will also examine the role of the laity in the administration of the schools.

The NCEA is a national organization that represents Catholic schools in the United States. It was founded in 1899 and has more than 200 member schools.

The study will be funded by a grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

The study will be led by Dr. James J. Albaugh, S.J., president of the University of Notre Dame.

The study will begin this fall and is expected to be completed by the end of 2016.

The new challenge

The Pope, in an address to the Italian bishops in Rome, has pointed out that the new law on divorce is a serious step in the wrong direction. It is a step towards the loosening of the Church's teachings on the matter. The Pope, in his address, has stressed the importance of maintaining the Church's teachings and has urged the bishops to work towards this end.

The Pope's address was delivered in the context of the recent changes in the law on divorce in Italy. The new law, which was introduced in 1970, has been a source of controversy within the Church. The Pope, in his address, has called for a return to the traditional teachings of the Church on the matter.

The Pope has also called for a renewed commitment to the Church's teachings on the matter, and has urged the bishops to work towards this end. He has said that the Church's teachings on the matter are based on the principle of the sanctity of marriage, and that the Church is committed to upholding this principle.

What does the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, for you and for me, in the apostolic work of the Church?

In the past, you have probably heard others of your family mention the Society of Propagation of the Faith. Yet, you may have felt somewhat at sea as to what it was all about. It is high time that you knew.

By pulling you in with the world in which you live, and pointing you toward the world of God, the Church proposes to all those who dwell in it, that they might get some understanding of God's love, and that the Church is ready to help.

It makes butter with the same milk that it makes cheese. It makes cheese with the same milk that it makes butter. The Church着力 to make butter and cheese for the entire world. It makes butter with the same milk that it makes cheese and cheese with the same milk that it makes butter. The Church着力 to make butter and cheese for the entire world.

If you are not included in the preparatory period for the next generation, you may feel like a bit of the world is missing out on the Church's efforts to make butter and cheese for the entire world. If you are included in the preparatory period for the next generation, you may feel like you are missing out on the Church's efforts to make butter and cheese for the entire world.

19th-Century Cardinal Influences 20th-Century Council

Newman Was a Century Too Soon

The following article reveals the contributions of Cardinal Newman to the development of modern Catholic education. The late Msgr. Patrick L. Loughlin of the New York City Archdiocese was the last person to hold the position of Cardinal in the United States. The article is from the National Catholic Reporter, October 30, 1979.

Newman: Catholic in Thought, but not in His Church

John Cardinal Newman, the 19th-century English theologian and religious reformer, is a figure whose role in educating the modern Catholic Church is still being studied. An advocate of modern education, Newman was influenced by the Chartist movement, which was then in its heyday. The Chartist movement was a political and social movement in the United Kingdom that sought to extend the right to vote to all adult males.

Newman is best known for his work as the founder of the University of Oxford. He is also known for his work as the head of the Catholic Church in England, where he was appointed in 1844. Newman was the first Catholic to be appointed to the position of Archbishop of the Church of England.

Newman was a member of the Chartist movement and was influenced by its ideas. He believed that education was a key to transforming society and that it was necessary to educate the masses in order to create a more just and equal society. Newman was also a strong critic of the established church, and he believed that it was necessary to reject the practices of the church in order to create a more just society.

Newman's ideas were influential in the development of modern education, and they continue to be studied today. Newman's ideas about education are still influential in the modern Catholic Church, and they continue to be studied today.

Legion of Decency
Adds Study Group

NEW YORK — In an effort to further implement the program of the Legion of Decency, an additi

Steven Agee, director of the American Legion, has announced the establishment of a study group to

The group, which will be composed of representatives from various local Legion posts, will meet on a regular basis to discuss and evaluate the Legion's efforts to promote decency through education and public service. The goal of the study group is to identify areas for improvement and to develop strategies for more effective outreach.

The Legion of Decency was founded in 1922 as a national organization dedicated to the promotion of moral values and the defense of American freedom. Over the years, it has played a significant role in shaping public opinion on issues related to family, education, and politics.

President Joseph Murphy outlined the objectives of the new study group, stating, "Our mission is to ensure that the principles of decency are upheld in all areas of public life. We will do this by collaborating with like-minded organizations and by engaging in ongoing educational initiatives that promote a culture of respect and responsibility."
Text of Vatican Letter on Individual and State

Notwithstanding the November 20 agreement, which has been fundamentally flawed and which has been ignored by the Vatican, the Church has remained committed to the principle of the individual and the state. The Vatican has taken a clear stand against the November 2 agreement, which it views as a threat to the Church's independence and autonomy. The Vatican has stated that the agreement is invalid and that the Church will not be bound by its terms. The Vatican has also stated that it will continue to support the individual and the state, and that it will not be intimidated by any agreement that seeks to undermine the Church's independence and autonomy.

It's Participation'

BY DIAN HOFF

Throwing a hailstorm, it must have been a night to remember for all who were privileged to be there. And, for those who were not, it's a memory to be cherished for years to come.

The children attended the first ever mass at their own school. They were the first to experience the thrill of participating in a mass.

The mass was celebrated in the school's auditorium. The children were seated in the pews, singing their songs and saying their prayers.

The presiding priest was Father Michael, who welcomed the children with a warm and friendly smile. He explained the meaning of each part of the prayer service, making it easy for them to understand.

The children were given their own prayer books, and were taught how to say the prayers correctly.

At the end of the mass, Father Michael gave each child a special privilege, which was to be shared with their families.

The children were then dismissed to go home, and to tell their families about the wonderful experience they had.

It was a night they would never forget, and a memory they would always cherish.

Pope John Paul II, Pope of the Roman Catholic Church, will arrive in the United States on Monday, September 10. The pontiff will visit the United States for four days, starting with a mass at the Carousel of Nations in Pennsylvania. He will also visit New York City and Washington, D.C. The pontiff's visit is expected to draw millions of people to the areas he will visit. The pontiff will be accompanied by a large entourage, including officials, clergy, and security personnel. The pontiff's visit is expected to be a significant event in the United States, with many expecting it to be a turning point in the relationship between the Catholic Church and the United States government.
Summer Brings Changes in Plans
by John Teahan

"I called the ticket office and ordered 10 or 20 minutes in the plane on Aug. 12," said Tom Sheehan, former St. John's University, former St. Michael's College, Brooklyn, N.Y., basketball player who was an assistant at Fordham University in the fall.

The 5 inch, 150-pound Sheehan, who is in his senior year at Fordham, said he will be back in Brooklyn in Union County to coach the varsity basketball team of his alma mater. The former Varsity Press basketball player for St. Michael's will replace Bill McDermott at the helm of the Riders.

Sheehan, who scored 15 points in Fordham's opening night game against New York, will coach the Riders in their first Big East Conference game against Xavier, freshmen against sophomores, on St. Patrick's Day, March 17.

The former Rider, who was an assistant to McDermott last year, said he was excited about his new venture. He also said he felt it was the right time to return to Brooklyn to try his hand at coaching on the varsity level.

The former Rider, who played for St. Michael's in the 1980-81 season, said he was looking forward to the challenge of leading the Riders to a successful season.

Sheehan, who was a three-year starter at Fordham, said he was excited about the prospect of leading the Riders to a successful season.

Newark Mapping War on Poverty

NEWARK: High Priest, Anthony J. Donnelly, director of the 35-year-old Carmelites, has been named a member of the "corporate" board which will lay the basis for the poverty program under recently enacted legislation.

Donnelly, Donnelly was among the representatives of the organization which met at 13 to 18 in order to line out the plan for projects which will be assisted by the federal funds.

UNDER TERMS of the anti-poverty law, the funds cannot be given directly to a municipality but must be channeled through an "incorporated" body of officials of member and nonprofit agencies. The purpose is to get the direction of the program as close to grass roots level as pos-

The plan is to be the baby of Mayor Donnelly and will be given its first breaths of action in mid-January.

TREDAVOCATE
To Prevent English Mass; Family Apostolate to Meet

An Advocate News Summary

A record 900 people, in- cluding 175 non-Catholic observers, are expected at the first meeting of the Family Apostolate of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, to be held at the Family Life Center at 41225 Vincennes Street, Detroit, Aug. 23. The convention is sponsored by the National Life Insurance Company, under the chairmanship of Dr. Albert J. L. Regis, rector of St. John's Seminary. The Family Life Center is incorporated under the laws of Michigan, with headquarters in Detroit, the first of its kind in the English-speaking world.

The objectives of the convention are to discuss the role of the Catholic family in the task of the Church, to present an apostolic program of family life and to offer practical help to parishes in carrying out this program.

The convention will be divided into three sections: a general session, a lay session and a religious session. The general session will be held in the Family Life Center, the lay session in the St. John's Seminary auditorium and the religious session in the St. John's Church.

The convention will begin at 10 a.m. with a general session on "The Family: The Challenge of the Second Vatican Council." The speakers will be Dr. Robert J. O'Reilly, pastor of the St. John's Seminary and Dr. Robert J. O'Reilly, pastor of the St. John's Seminary.

The lay session will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. and will be devoted to "The Family: The Challenge of the Second Vatican Council." The speakers will be Dr. Robert J. O'Reilly, pastor of the St. John's Seminary and Dr. Robert J. O'Reilly, pastor of the St. John's Seminary.

The religious session will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. and will be devoted to "The Family: The Challenge of the Second Vatican Council." The speakers will be Dr. Robert J. O'Reilly, pastor of the St. John's Seminary and Dr. Robert J. O'Reilly, pastor of the St. John's Seminary.

The convention will conclude with an awards presentation, followed by a reception and dinner.

The convention is open to all Catholics and non-Catholics interested in the family apostolate.

The convention is sponsored by the National Life Insurance Company, with headquarters in Detroit, the first of its kind in the English-speaking world.
