Catholic Church

The Advocate

VATICAN CITY — Pope Paul VI opened the third session of the general congregational council with a ringing endorsement of the New Commandment of love in a speech addressed to the 5,000 bishops, nuns and religious officials attending the council.

As if to back up his words with a dramatic gesture, the pope, in a striking contrast to the refusal of many bishops to attend the conclave, opened the meeting by entering the hall accompanied by 24 cardinals and members of the Roman Curia.

SEVERAL TIMES today, as the pope walked among the faithful entering the hall, he was greeted by a chorus of applause. The approval was heard by a large group of observers, including two American Catholics.

The pope's council, described by many as the most important meeting of the century, will certainly be shorn of the fringe elements that attended the previous sessions.

The pope took credit for the meetings having been peaceful, and he ended his address with a warning that their success may depend on what happens at the last council.

The session was opened with the reading of a joint message from the Holy Father and the bishops of the Catholic Church.

After the Pope's message, there was a period of applause for the new pope. The applause was interrupted by a demonstration of the Vatican's new electric organ, which was played by the famous organist, Guido Baccioni.

The council will be divided into two parts, the first part of which will be devoted to the study of the New Commandment of love, and the second part of which will be devoted to the study of the New Testament.

The pope's message was followed by a joint statement from the Pope and the bishops, which was read by the Pope's secretary, Monsignor C. J. O'Connell.

The statement was then approved by a vote of the council, and the council then adjourned until 3 p.m. today.

Religious life has limited horizons — not only regarding the effects of the new papal pronouncement, but also regarding the effects of this new pronouncement on other religious groups. This is true in the case of the Jews, for example. It is also true in the case of the Muslims and less so in the case of the Hindus. This has to be the case, however, because of the nature of the religious life, which is based on the principle of separation from the world. The religious life has no place in the world and no place in the world of the Jews, Muslims, and Hindus.

The Pope’s message, given in a letter to Pope Paul VI, was sent to the Pope on the occasion of the 10th anniversary of the canonization of Pope Paul VI.

The Pope and the Council — as the new papal pronouncement has been declared, it will be necessary to work on the understanding of the Pope and the Council.

The Pope and the Council — as the new papal pronouncement has been declared, it will be necessary to work on the understanding of the Pope and the Council. This is necessary because the Pope and the Council are the two parties who have the most influence on the religious life of the world. Address to the 3rd Ordinary Session of the XXII Ordinary General Council of the Church

Cardinal Mendelsohn, President of the Council, opens the third session of the Ordinary General Council of the Church.

Cardinal Mendelsohn: I propose now to speak to you, dear Sovereign Pontiff, of the Holy Father, and in the name of the Church I want to offer you my fraternal and humble greetings, asking God to make you a chosen vessel, a good shepherd, a powerful, kind and strong pontiff. Give us to see the Word in You, which is the image of the Father, the one who has given You the name of Jesus. Let us be his friends and serve You, as did the Good Shepherd, by doing the will of God.

Pope Paul VI: In the name of the Church I accept your greeting, and I reply to you, Cardinal Mendelsohn, and to you, my dear brethren, with a heart full of love and deep gratitude.

Cardinal Mendelsohn: We thank God for the drive of the Church. We thank God for the Church which is bound to God. We thank God for the Church which is also the Church of the Church.

Pope Paul VI: I thank God for the Church which is bound to God. I thank God for the Church which is also the Church of the Church.

Let Us Pray—In English

This week brings with it an ominous return in the worship of God by Americans. As the Good FridayEnglish language is the official language for the U.S. for the sacred services, and this week brings with it the change deseases of mind that we see Americans Catholic is not merely as we might be expected.

We therefore extend our sympathy to our brothers and sisters in heaven, and ask for their prayers for the salvation of souls. We pray that they may be found worthy and that they may share the beatitudes of heaven.

Jersey City Can-Do

Summer's best spawned sporadic outbreaks of racial in our nation as well as in other. In Jersey City, these have been sporadic thinking reflected in race to unity to determine causes, to try to foresee future direction.

It was Jenny City who came up with an interesting program called Jersey City Can-Do. Initiated by clergy of various factions, this is a state-wide program to help scale people movement. Its purpose is to help people overcome the sense of powerlessness that they seek to improve the inequities that are in large part responsible for our race problem.

Racial dissonance is blamed on many causes - cultural, economical, religious, unexplored, and others. But the main reason that dissonance is true, but still "the why" of the situation that remains unanswered.

Why are there "many differences" that parishioners cannot understand? Why is the power of an agitator for change so much greater than their advantage? Why is such hatred in the hearts of people caused? Why have we? Why have there been such terrible events in our history? Why do we not understand each other?

Jersey City Can-Do is an attempt to help people understand each other and coming up with solutions. The program has many facets, but it has a gold program calling for work opportunities and on-the-job training to offer something to frustrated people.

The economic of cold weather will chill the spirit of an industrial center but will not end the desire of ever-present the need that has been created for change. There are more matters to come, opportunities to help people feeling to face now.

It is a period for planning, for meetings, for action. The completion of a long period of many experiences in accepting Jewish, the religious symbol in the labor movement.

THAT'S WHY keen interest is shown in the program, it is the beginning. Many people take it. What makes them the same? By comparison with others, they are in the larger role. Why are they not the same? They are not the same. They are in the larger role.

The trend toward actualization of the program is impressive. Those who study it are surprised to see how quickly they are advancing, in fact, Jersey City's Can-Do, de

A Second Church System

If there remains any doubt about the need for a Catholic schools system in the U.S., a report in this paper is certain to dispel it. The system we have had to adjust to the racial tensions in our society. While it is not a perfect system, it has served us well. We have a problem in that system, however, and we must ask ourselves why we have a problem.

Caldwell - It is now over 19 years since Joseph F. Weis was placed in the face of 30. Not until then had the students had the urge to leave their own growth. The student body is now over 2,3,000 at this college and the student body is over 100.

The first year at Caldwell was in 1937, and the college was called the "Town College." The college was named after the town of Caldwell in Essex County, New Jersey. The college was founded in 1868 by the Sisters of Saint Dominic, a religious order that had been in the area since 1854.

The college was originally a normal school, with a focus on education and teaching. It offered courses in education, literature, and the arts. The college was modeled after Sisters of Saint Dominic's Normal School in Madison, Wisconsin, which was one of the first normal schools in the United States.

The college was a small community of students and faculty, and the campus was surrounded by farmland. The college was located on a hill overlooking the town of Caldwell, and the campus was a peaceful and serene environment.

The college's educational programs were designed to prepare students for careers in education, as well as in other fields such as business and law.

In 1937, the college was renamed the "Caldwell College of Education." The college's name was changed again in 1952, to "Caldwell College," and it is now called Caldwell University.

A Kitchen Bulletin Board

Is Vehicle of Communication

By MARY H. HEALY

Since the early days of the Catholic Church and in the days when a child had no use for a refrigerator, the Bulletin Board, as the name implies, was used to post the kitchen news. As the years went by and we found the days of the schoolteacher board, the Bulletin Board kept right on going, used as a means of communication, but with the exception of the kitchen news, there was little else to it.

The Bulletin Board has been around for quite a while, but it seems to have gained in popularity and interest in the last few years. It has been found to be an excellent vehicle for communication and has been used for a variety of purposes. It has been found to be an excellent means of communication, but with the exception of the kitchen news, there was little else to it.

Native Priests Needed
To Establish Church

The formation of a native clergy is a vital part of any Christian mission. Many Catholic institutions are already working on this, and the first step is to open the door of the Church to the local priests. A native clergy and this missionary priesthood work together to accomplish the same goal, for the Church needs both. It is impossible to have a true Church without a native clergy. A native clergy is a necessary element in the life of any Church.

Priests are needed to

1. Establish Churches
2. Teach the Faith
3. Provide spiritual care

In the Philippines, many European Catholic priests are needed to establish new parishes and teach the Faith to the local people. The priests are needed to provide spiritual care to the people, to bring them the sacraments, and to give them the guidance they need.

Shaped Suits Coming Back

Fashion is really shaping up in suits for fall, according to the American Institute of Men’s and Boys’ Wear, and shaping up will be more than a figure of speech when it comes to the new models in men’s clothing.

For the first time in many years, the fitted suit shows signs of making a real comeback. New fall suits have enough waist definition to take them out of the loose-fitting straight-line category, without sacrificing easy fitting comfort. Versions of the new shapely suits can be found in the conservative “classics,” the very modern “contemporary,” and the natural shoulder “traditions.”

The spring summer “tighter and brighter look” has also been carried forward into the handsomely fall offerings, now supplemented by an attractive revival of the “twinky look” in cheviots, shellshells and ruffled tweeds.

In direct contrast, wide Legs are on the way to score further gains in both subtle and flashy varieties.

This is a banner season for shirkins, too, most of which are undersized in pattern. Many, however, are embellished with both subdued and distinct gin plaids and others in striped, herringbone, and overprint designs. The usual tony shirkipper weaves are accompanied by both “birdseye” and “nailhead” shirkins.

Among the other fabrics are stretch fabrics, whipcord, wastered flannels, mill finished worsteds and many blends of mohair and worsted.

New Softer Shape Appears in Dresses

The look is soft, softer, softest in fall’s dress fashions. The gentle woman makes her bow, feminine, prettier than ever.

She’ll have the “head-to-toe" look, in costumes or jacket dresses. She’ll wear rich, vintageshades of texture; tweeds galore. She'll have her choice of many different looks, all of them marvelous.

The soft feeling in new fabrics is exalted in the blouson. Blousing softly at the waist, or, even narrower, at the hip, often fanning out into pleats, this is an important trend.

Skinny coatdresses in men’s wear fabrics or ropey, colorful tweeds look wonderful for afternoon wear.

Plaids are everywhere, done in every way — box plaids, unpressed plaids, knife pleats. The trend is toward the "living skirt," providing ease of movement and a breezy, feminine look.

Long sleeves, shoulder yokes and low, fitted hip bands are some details cropping up in many fall dress styles. Belted shoulder lines and high across fronts are trends to watch for in afternoon styles.

The costume look is one that all designers endorse. The dress with matching jacket or coat, the two-piece dress, each with the look of a suit, all convey a flinted, coordinated look.

The season’s colors read like a list of fine wines — burnished, claret, all the plum tones from garnet to cerise and amethyst are embroidered, as well as royal-navy, lilac, violet and all the blued reds.

Greens and blues are brighter. Bright sky blue, kelly, cat’s eye green are fresh and new. Rust and brown, earthy tones will be seen in a new shade, and afe black-brown. Off-whites are shown for any time of day, in shades like celery and palest taupe.

Fabrics present a study in contrasts. One group features muted, repeated tweeds in zingy color combinations. Another group is the men’s wear fabrics — checks, herringbones, gin plaids, or subdued oxford gray, deep brown, blackened greens.

Double-knit and wool jerseys are favorites, and textures interest is important.

‘Gentle Woman’ Styles Seen in Fall Minks

Mink fashions for fall, 1964, reflect the “gentle woman” look.

Coats are slim, shaped in front, and often double-breasted, featuring the open throat, notched collar. The three-quarter mink coat is noteworthy, particularly, in the various natural Emu shades.

Jackets are long to the hipbone, blurred or slim, with belt or without. Both coats and jackets tend toward the slightly squared-off shoulder. News is at the top in collars and shaping, going along with the long line and the femaline phase of fashion.

The casual look for furs continues in the news, in such styles as a mink sweater, complete with knick collar and cuffs and a knick skirt to match.

For stylish fashions in coats and jackets of Emu mink that are washed or tied with fur or leather. One town and country jacket features a notched collar, button buttons and cuffed shirt sleeves. Another coat has a hidden draw-string, which ties gathered, the coat at the waist to create a fitted look.

Little wraps, an important part of the fur fashion picture, have been given the casual treatment, too. One designer has created a wrap which can be worn over the head as a hood.

Lounge wear Returns To 30’s Opulence

The regal, elegant, frankly fabulous look of the 1930's is interpreted in fall’s newest lounge wear fashions.

Long, ankle-length wrap coats look newest, done in rich, lambskin fabrics. Separates, or two-part look jumpers often double as pajamas.
GROOMING, on heels high. You'll do gracefully wear calf leather.

The Very Soft Look In Shoes

Fashion... Fall 1964

The heels are just a little bit lower on the shoes for daytime wear.

medium heels are lowered 1/8 inches; new heels are news at 1½ inches and 10/8 inches. For daytime wear, heels are set back and toe line lifted for the look of more grace.

Shoes are broadened for daytime wear and for dress and business the finger tip crescent toe.

n is still the look of fashion. Brushed leathers trimmed with smooth leather are important.

Cricket (a new neutral green) and autumn haze (a lovely soft brown) lead the way to a more casual look in leathers. In smooth leather, Caviar calf is the high in elegance. A soft calf with a fine, fine grain adds another dimension to leather. In the soft colors of Fedora (a lovely neutral tan), fawn, black and clipper brown - shoes look more attractive than ever.

All the latest fashion is yours in shoes.

Pioneered Shoe Sales

In 1896, Bertram Grossman opened the first Grossman Shoe Store on Central Ave., Jersey City. He expanded the business until 1917, when Morton Wallach purchased a share of the business and opened a second unit in Oranges. This store was an immediate success. Through the efforts of Wallach and his manager, Grossman’s became the first name in shoes in the Oranges as well as in Jersey City.

In 1922, Grossman retired and Wallach became president. In ensuing years, Henry Grossman and Harold Morris were to become active in the management.
