Council Fathers Tackle The World's Problems

To Aid Needy

Appeals for Clothes

NEWARK — A letter read at a meeting of the Archdiocesan Council of Newark Oct. 24, Archbishop Buechel and the annual Thanksgiving Clothing Collection offers an opportunity for Catholics to help Pope Pius XII call to "show Christian love for all men."

The collection will be held Nov. 14 to 25 in parishes of Newark and Paterson according to the plans of the diocesan office. There are no dates for those in various areas. The plans provide for more efficient holding of millions of pounds of clothing collected.

The clothing collected during the drive, the Archbishop noted, "becomes a precious bond to bring millions of busy souls near the heart of the Church and will be a great aid in the work of the diocese."

Now, every Catholic, the Archbishop said, could do his share of this work. The clothing is distributed to the needy by Catholic Relief Services — the largest private voluntary relief agency in the world. It operates in 81 countries.

The Liturgical Renewal

A Part to Play For Each Person

Each in a series of articles on the forthcoming Council of the Church's, the author is a member of the Catechetical Commission of the National Catholic Educational Association.

By REV. JAMES C. TURBO

The Church is not a local

The Church is not a local church, but a worldwide entity. Through the many areas of the Church's official work, each individual parish is a part of the worldwide Church. The people of God who form the Church are members of the Body of Christ. Each member of the Church is a member of the Body of Christ. Each member of the Church exists locally, but he is also a member of the Church universal.

Laymen To Study Liturgy

SOUTH ORANGE — Several hundred people in this area, including priests, will attend the Liturgy Study Day sponsored by the Catholic Life Apportionment of the South Orange Vicariate. The program, destined to appeal to Catholic laymen, and held in the parish hall of St. John the Baptist Church, will be held on Saturday, Oct. 22, at 9:30 a.m. A special guest speaker will address the gathering.

REV. FRANCIS Z. Need, director of the Liturgical Service Department of the National Catholic Educational Association, will make the presentation. The theme is titled "The Liturgy and Its Possible Applications." The program will be held in 12 workshops in all Catholic parishes.

Catholics To Study Church Role

By Rev. John M. Mahon, pastor at St. Patrick's Church, Newark, N.J., and director of the Liturgical Service Department of the National Catholic Educational Association, the bishops of the diocese held a conference on the role of the Catholic Church in New Jersey. Held at St. Mary's Hall in Jersey City, the conference was attended by representatives from all parishes in the diocese.

Teachers' Institute Due in Paterson

FAIRMONT — Dr. James M. Novak, N.J., will address the keynotes at St. Peter's Teachers' Institute at Pope Paul's Church.

Mass on Education

The Mass will be celebrated at the Church by the bishop of the Paterson Diocese, the Most Rev. John M. Mahon, pastor at St. Patrick's Church, at 9 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 20, at 9 a.m. The Mass will be celebrated at the Church by the bishop of the Paterson Diocese, the Most Rev. John M. Mahon, pastor at St. Patrick's Church, at 9 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 20, at 9 a.m. The bishop will also address the keynotes' Institute at the Church.

For the Question Box

A Change of Format

"Give us more in-depth articles by your Question Box authors about those on racial discrimination and other education problems on many of which there is little disagreement. We have not been impressed by the answers to the really important questions, and so we hope you will select some of our questions for the Question Box, but we hope they will serve as a better tool in our hands."

"Do you agree with the question box answers?" We are writing you to express our disagreement with the answers to the question box. We believe that the answers are not consistent with our own views on the matter.

"Do you think there are any other topics that should be covered in the question box?" We would like to see more articles on the political and economic impacts of the new technologies, as well as the role of the Church in resolving these issues.

"Do you have any suggestions for improving the question box?" We think that the question box should be more focused on the practical aspects of the issues, and that it should provide more concrete solutions to the problems it raises.
The Mass: What It Will Be Like

In a note of what the everyday Mass will be like, when the changes authorized in the latest Code of Canon Law take effect on Nov. 25, the author does not exclude completely that the Mass will lose some of its mystique. He argues, however, that the changes are such that the Mass will still retain most of its present appeal.

SERVICE OF THE WORD

Prayers at the Foot of the Altar

The new code of Canon Law provides that both the Confessors and other presiding ministers will be able to say the prayers at the foot of the altar. This is what the author writes about.

Pray for the Dead

To those who pray for the deceased, the author states: "A Mass will be said on the heavenly part of the deceased, and the prayer for the dead, including the soul of the deceased, will be held in the name of the deceased by the Bishop or Ordinary of the Place of Peace." The prayer will be said at the end of the Mass, and it will be said immediately after the conclusion of the Mass.

Catechumens

The author writes: "The Catechumen will be able to participate in the prayer of the faithful." The prayer of the faithful will be said at the beginning of each Mass, and it will be said by the presiding minister, either the Bishop or Ordinary of the Place of Peace.

Conclusion

The author concludes: "In general, the changes authorized in the latest Code of Canon Law will not affect the Mass in any significant way. The Mass will still retain most of its present appeal, and it will continue to be a source of inspiration and comfort to those who attend it."
Egypt's Catholics Fleeing A Moslem Stranglehold

BY ELMER VON FLEUT
New York Times

While the officially Catholic Church enjoys relative freedom in the United Arab Republic (Egypt), the personal freedoms of the Catholic faithful as a whole are being increasingly curtailed, according to reports from Catholic sources, who feel that the situation is approaching the point of intolerable pressure for the participants of the Second Vatican Council. The new Egyptian law stipulating that a Catholic marriage is invalid if the bride or groom belongs to a Moslem family has been under attack by various quarters, but the government has so far refused to modify the law.

While the new law provides for a legitimate marriage to be declared invalid if both parties are of Moslem faith, the law also provides that a Catholic marriage is invalid if the bride or groom belongs to a Moslem family. This provision has been a source of great distress to many Catholics in Egypt, who feel that it is an attack on their personal liberties. The government has refused to modify the law, despite protests from various quarters.

The government's action is seen as a step in the direction of eliminating all trace of Christianity from Egypt. The government has also been accused of discriminating against Christians, and many Catholics feel that their personal freedoms are being increasingly curtailed. The new law is seen as a further step in this direction, and many Catholics are concerned about their future in Egypt.
Population and Peace Problems Eyed in Georgetown Sessions

WASHINGTON — Population experts and a broad religious and political assemblage gathered here for three days of meetings on the theme of "Population, Peace and International Security." The conference was held at Georgetown University, Nov. 9-11, 1966, under the sponsorship of the American Institute of International Law and the Georgetown University Law Center, "to heighten the awareness of all persons who deal with questions of peace and international security of the contribution that the study and understanding of population can make to the achievement of peace and secure international relations." Five hundred guests, including leading experts from the United States and abroad, were addressed by leaders of government, religion and scholarship, who stressed the importance of population research and the need for increased understanding and action in order to control population growth and its impact on peace and security.

Viet Buddhist Say Reds Used Them

BY REV. PATERSON O'CONNOR, S.J.

SAIGON, Vietnam — The Viet Cong have been using Communist propaganda agents to infiltrate South Vietnamese monasteries and nunneries, Father Paterson O'Connor, an American Jesuit who heads the Center for Religious Studies in Saigon, said.

"The Viet Cong have been using agents to infiltrate monasteries and nunneries in an attempt to undermine the authority of the Church and to influence the religious community," Father O'Connor said. "These agents are often former monastics who have left the religious life for various reasons, including political reasons." He said that the Viet Cong have been working to divide the monastic community and weaken its moral authority.

Civil Rights 'Peacemakers' Seek Church Aid

WASHINGTON — Rights groups here are mounting a mass effort to secure Federal funds for a civil rights church aid program, using the same approach that was successful in winning support for the Neighborhood Youth Corps, the school lunch program and other Federal social welfare projects.

"The aim of the effort is to have the church and the civil rights movement working together to secure Federal funds for a program that will help the Church in the civil rights struggle," said Rev. John K. Thiel, a priest of the Archdiocese of Washington, who is leading the campaign.

However, the campaign is facing strong opposition from some church leaders who believe that the program will undermine the independence of the Church and its ability to make its own decisions about its mission.

South Vietnamese funds are needed for water projects

HANOI — South Vietnamese funds are needed for water projects in the country, according to a recent statement by the Ministry of Water Resources.

The statement said that the Vietnamese government is committed to the development of water resources in the country and that it is working with international organizations to secure the necessary funds.

"We need the support of the international community to ensure the solvency of the project," the statement said.

"The project will be implemented in cooperation with the World Bank and other international organizations."
Rags Are Riches

In 1880, an old woman and the children dressed in ragged clothes were at Thanksgiving Day, a parade on a chilly, foggy morning. The scene was set in the city of New York. The old woman carried a bag filled with rags, and the children wore the clothes they had been given by the charitable organizations. However, the rags were not just a means of survival; they were also a symbol of the larger society's love and support.

In part, the story of Thanksgiving is the story of giving. It is a celebration of the bounty of the harvest, but it is also a celebration of the generosity of the human spirit. The rags on the children's clothes were not just a result of poverty; they were also a testament to the strength of the human spirit. The children, who were dressed in rags, were also dressed in hope.

In this way, we can see how Thanksgiving is more than just a holiday; it is a reminder of the importance of giving and sharing. It is a reminder that, even in the midst of hardship, there is always hope. And it is a reminder that, even in the midst of poverty, there is always love.
Letters to the Editor

Marching Men: Suggestions...

Editor: Your picture to Congressman Paul McCloskey in the special session of the 90th Congress which would be put a much-needed ending to the war in Vietnam.

The照片 is of a man whose name has been misspelled. The correct name is Maxwell McCloskey, a representative from California. The picture shows him marching with other soldiers in a demonstration in Washington, D.C. The accompanying text suggests sending the photo to McCloskey as a way to support ending the war in Vietnam.

Sin, Not Skin, Is the Issue

Editor: I read your story on Cardinal Spellman and how he declared an end to the Vietnam War. I think the cardinal is wrong.

The article discusses Cardinal Spellman's statement that the Vietnam War is a sin, not a skin issue. The author argues that the cardinal is wrong, and that the issue is not about skin color, but about the morality of the war.

A Threat to Honesty

Editor: We have a new appointee to the Ramparts who claims to be honest. He certainly isn't.

The letter mentions a new appointee to the Ramparts who claims to be honest, but the author argues that this is not true.

For Success Of Socialism

Editor: Socialism, which is often referred to as a progressive force, has been its own worst enemy.

The article discusses the failures of socialism and how it has often been its own worst enemy. The author argues that while socialism has good intentions, it has failed to deliver on its promises.

Holy Spirit Is at Work In All of Christianity

By REV. JOHN S. BEECH, C.P.

I am beginning to feel that our world is approaching its most exciting period in the history of Christianity.

It seems that the Holy Spirit has been waiting for the right time to begin the work of salvation in the world. Now it seems that the time has come, and we must be ready to receive it with open hearts and minds.

Today's world is in need of the Holy Spirit, and it is our responsibility to participate in this work of salvation.

The Holy Spirit is working in the world today, and it is our duty to seek out those who are seeking for something more in their lives.

We must be ready to welcome the Holy Spirit into our lives, and to let it guide us towards a more spiritual and meaningful way of living.

Holy Spirit is at Work In All of Christianity

As we look to the future, we must remember that the Holy Spirit is at work in all of Christianity, and that we must be ready to receive it with open hearts and minds.

We must continue to pray for the guidance of the Holy Spirit, and to let it be a part of our everyday lives.

Tonight's paper reports that the 29-31 Club has received your prayers and good wishes, and of the checks that the church office has recorded for the benefit of those in need. You have said that your friends and family have brought great joy to the hearts of those in need.

I know what will happen, I will go to the mission to work, I will do what I can, but I will not have any luck. I cannot do what I need to do. And I want to know what I can do to help others.

A Painting the Artist Won't Keep

BY JOHN TIERAN COUTH - Bob Gregson, director of Boy's Catholic High School, Montclair, is a wizard at building and organizing. We wondered if he was the originator of two or more of our construction buildings. It was then that he explained that he was not interested in any of our construction buildings. He was interested in any of our construction buildings. He was interested in any of our construction buildings. He was interested in any of our construction buildings. He was interested in any of our construction buildings.

Not because he is a painter, but just for fun. He feels this is a waste of time. He has never been interested in any of our construction buildings.

In Mass and Missions Remember Your Dead

The duty of praying for the dead is in the highest degree necessary. It is a duty incumbent on every Christian to remember, in thought and prayer, those who have been called to their eternal home. The Mass is the greatest form of prayer and we should consider the great merits of souls praying, especially as they can reach God on our behalf and obtain much for us. Remember, too, that the Mass is the greatest means of sanctifying one's life. For this reason, it is a duty incumbent on all Catholics to attend Mass regularly and to pray for the repose of the souls of the departed.

An Editorial

Right and Responsibility

In his great encyclical, Pacem in Terris, Pope John XXIII, wrote: "The dignity of the human person also requires that every man enjoys the right to act freely and responsibly. For this reason, in social relations especially man should exercise his rights, fulfill his obligations and, in the countless forms of collaboration with others, act chiefly on his own responsibility and initiative."

ONE AREA IN WHICH a citizen enjoys the "right to act freely and responsibly" is that in which he votes for those who are running for public office. In exercising this right he is, at the same time, fulfilling an obligation which he owes to the society of men among whom he is numbered.

It has been estimated that 114 million Americans are eligible to vote this year. Four years ago only 63% of those who could did vote. One-third failed to take advantage of that great privilege of citizenship.

Barry remains away from the polls from a general public indifference, paradoxically in their selfish desire not to be bothered, they hurt themselves as much as others. Those who fail to vote because they "can't see either one of them," act as if the office should remain vacant until they approve of a candidate. The privilege of voting is one that should be exercised with reason rather than emotion. The reasonable citizen doesn't vote out of spite or prejudice. He should not choose a candidate because of personal likes or dislikes. Rather he judges, in so far as he is able, how each candidate faces up to the issues that concern the common good. He votes for a candidate and the platform on which he is running rather than against his opponent.

IN PRESENTING THIS special election supplement, candidates are offered a channel through which they can offer themselves and their party platform to Advocate readers. Their appearance in these pages constitutes an endorsement neither of their candidacy nor of their platform.

Make a choice, a reasonable choice, and then cast your vote.

The Major Issues...

As the Democrats See Them

Prepared by the Democratic State Committee

- COMMUNISM

In 1960 freedom was on the offensive, the Communists—doubling both our strength and our will to use it—pressed forward in South East Asia, Latin America, Central Africa and Berlin.

President Kennedy and Vice President Johnson set out to remove any question of our power or our will. In the Cuban crisis of 1962 the Communist offensive was checked on the rock of President Kennedy's determination—and our ability— to defend the peace.

Two years later President Johnson responded to another Communist challenge, this time in the Gulf of Tonkin, once again power exercised with restraint repulsed Communist aggression and strengthened the cause of freedom.

- CIVIL RIGHTS

The variety of our people is the source of any strength and ought not to be a cause of dishonor or discord. The rights and our citizens must be protected and all the laws of our land obeyed, if America is to be a free Democracy.

The Civil Rights Act of 1964 deserves and requires full observance by every American and fair affective enforcement if there is any default.

- SOCIAL SECURITY

The Social Security program initiated and developed under the national leadership of the Democratic Party and in the face of ceaseless partisan opposition, contributes a reality to the strength of the nation. We must ensure that those who have contributed to the system shall share in the steady increase in our standard of living by adjusting benefits accordingly.

We hold firmly to the conviction long embraced by the Democratic administration that advancing years of life should bring not fear and loneliness, but security, meaning and satisfaction.

- NATIONAL DEFENSE

Since 1961 and at the lowest possible cost, we have created a balanced, versatile, powerful defense establishment capable of countering aggression across the entire spectrum of conflict, from nuclear confrontation, to guerrilla subversion.

We have increased our intercontinental ballistic missiles and Polaris missiles from fewer than 100 to more than 1,000. More than four times the force of the Soviet Union. We have increased the number of combat-ready divisions from 11 to 18, keeping our nation strong and alert.

As the Republicans See Them

Prepared by the Republican State Committee

- COMMUNISM AND ITS THREAT TO THE FREE WORLD

Barry Goldwater believes that the United States must lead the free world with firm purpose and wholehearted dedication to the cause of freedom. He favors an effective economic military blockade of Cuba, stopping once and for all its use by the Communists as a stepping stone to America. He advocates closer ties with our NATO allies. He thinks we should cease all aid to Communist or semi-Communist nations.

"If you have a fellow who says he's going to bury you, you don't hand him a shovel. I would like to think that one day an American President would say, 'You are wrong, Mr. Khrushchev. Your children will live under freedom.'"

- FEDERAL AID TO EDUCATION

Federal aid maintains Goldwater, inevitably invades federal control. Goldwater and Miller agree with the Republican platform which says that a combination of individual federal income tax credits, selective aids to higher education and strengthened state and local taxes, would free the states, local communities and individuals to choose their own form of educational program.

"I have consistently opposed federal aid to elementary and secondary schools as unnecessary and unwise. Nevertheless, I have advocated that any such aid should Congress authorize it — most in fairness he be made available to all schools, public, private or parochial.

- SOCIAL SECURITY

The Goldwater-Miller platform strongly favors a sound Social Security program. The prime purpose of Social Security has always been to provide a basic floor of protection for the aged and to supplement private programs and individual provision for the years of retirement.

"We will not preserve the Social Security system if we saddled it with unnecessary new burdens, such as medicare. We penalize every aged citizen if we then bankrupt the system which protects them."

- CIVIL RIGHTS

Barry Goldwater and Bill Miller are unalterably opposed to discrimination or segregation based on race, creed or color. The civil rights guaranteed to all citizens of the United States by the 14th and 15th Amendments to the Constitution involve a legitimate federal responsibility. But Barry Goldwater voted against the Civil Rights Bill only because of two sections — public accommodations and the fair employment practices commission — because he believes that they are unconstitutional, depriving Americans of basic freedoms.

"My concern is with this nation — with freedom for everyone who lives in it and who will be born in it. This is the time to attend to the liberties of all, not the demands of the few. Let me be judged by this real concern, not by what others say I think. The key word is pluralism and religious tolerance lies not in laws alone, but in the hearts of men."

— Speech to the Senate on Civil Rights, June 18, 1964.

ELECT BERNARD M. SHANLEY
AS YOUR UNITED STATES SENATOR

BERN SHANLEY AND HIS OPPONENT
DISAGREE ON THESE ISSUES:

Bern Shanley on Federal Aid to Private and Parochial Schools:
"I will not vote for any school aid bill that discriminates against private or parochial schools by denying them equal aid."

Bern Shanley on Medical Care for the Elderly:
"I will work for and vote for a meaningful program of medical care for Senior Citizens that does not bankrupt the Social Security system."

Bern Shanley on Tax Dollars Returned to New Jersey:
"Of all 50 states, New Jersey is last in receiving tax dollars back from the federal government. We send $2.10 to Washington and get only $1.00 back. As your Senator, I'll see we get a fair share of the tax dollars."

WHAT
Dwight D. Eisenhower
SAYS ABOUT
BERN SHANLEY:

"Bern Shanley worked at my side in many capacities at the White House. He is an able man of fine character, who knows our problems at home and abroad. Bern Shanley will make a great U.S. Senator from New Jersey."

Bern Shanley and National Affairs:
During the Eisenhower Administration, Shanley held responsible positions, first as Special Counsel and later as Secretary to the President. As White House liason, he was an active force in meetings with the Cabinet, National Security Council and the Joint Chiefs of Staff. When elected to the U.S. Senate, his voice will be listened to with respect in the high councils of national government.

Bern Shanley and International Affairs:
Shanley's key leadership positions in Washington kept him abreast of military and foreign affairs. His many foreign assignments included a meeting in 1955 with President Macapagal in the Philippines to discuss the problems of southeast Asia. The National Security Council entrusted him with an on-the-spot investigation of the explosive Quezon and Matsu situation.

Bern Shanley Is A Family Man

Bern Shanley is married to the former Maureen Smith. The Shanley's have five children; Maureen, 25; Seton, 23; Kevin, 21; Brigid 17; Brendan, 15.

Bern Shanley and State Affairs:
Bernard Shanley has lived in New Jersey all his life. He knows the state, its citizens, and its problems. He received Sixth Annual Brotherhood Award of New Jersey Chapter of National Conference of Christians and Jews in 1953. Received State Commander's Citation in 1954 — highest award given by New Jersey Catholic War Veterans. Received Citation for Outstanding Service to Disabled American Veterans in 1955.

What Bern Shanley Believes:
"Government closest to home is the best government. States should be encouraged to deal with their own problems whenever and wherever feasible. This country's strength, at home and abroad, is rooted in the free enterprise system. I believe in fiscal integrity and a balanced budget. Individual freedom and the right to self-improvement must be protected at all costs. I believe in and will fight for the human and civil rights of all people, regardless of race, creed or religion. I am first an American, next a Republican. The best interest of the State must be put above party loyalty. We must stiffen the backbone of American foreign policy. We must make it perfectly clear, to friends and foes alike, that our fundamental aim is to further freedom and not merely contain Communism."
