PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL LAW

DIPL 3104

Professor Miller

Fall 2019

COURSE DESCRIPTION

International law distributes power, resources, and rights to individuals, states, corporations, and other entities. International courts adjudicate key ethical questions such as the expression of religion in public, the rights of groups, or the duty to prosecute or to amnesty heinous violations. States use international law as a justification both for military intervention and for the refusal to intervene. Refugees fleeing war zones encounter international law when they cross borders, enter camps, plead for citizenship, search for food and water, or claim basic rights. Whether considering the international order from the perspective of the most or the least powerful people or groups, comprehending it requires understanding the power, limitations, and functions of international law.

This course will introduce students to the field of public international law. Historically understood as the law governing relations between states, public international law now addresses a multitude of other actors and subjects. Both the subjects and the substance of the field have radically transformed over the course of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries, adding not only non-state actors but substantive areas like human rights, the use of force, criminal law, and humanitarian law. In addition, the field has become associated with questions of global governance and interdependence. This course will explore the foundations of the international legal order by examining the definitions, rights, and obligations of key actors, the sources of international law, substantive areas, and emerging norms and regimes. By the end of the semester, students should have knowledge of key concepts, doctrines and debates involved in the study of international law.

Students will also develop familiarity with legal reasoning and analysis. Law is, centrally, about making arguments; in reading and analyzing a wide variety of international legal cases, issues, and doctrines, students will become skilled at identifying, critiquing, and developing legal arguments. The course will also help students to develop critical reading and writing faculties that extend beyond the legal field. We will pay special attention to the political effects of law and the legal effects of political decisions. In the process, we will identify both the differences between legal and political activity and the inextricable links between them in the global order.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

This course has several components, more fully described below: (a) completing assigned readings before class and participating in class discussions; (b) preparing several case briefs and a response paper; and (c) taking two exams. Class participation will be worth 15% of your grade, writing assignments (case briefs and response paper) will be worth 20%, the first exam 30%, and the second exam 35%. Case briefs will be graded on a check, check minus, check plus system.

I strongly encourage you (1) to prepare an outline of the course as we go along as an aid to studying for the exams and (2) to form study groups to review the materials and issues.

Readings and Participation. Class attendance and participation are a required part of the course, and will be considered in determining your grade. I expect you to read all of the assigned readings before class and to be prepared to discuss them in class.

Case briefs. You will submit a number of case briefs on the dates indicated in the syllabus. Briefs are due before class. The briefs will be submitted through Safe Assign. Late briefs will be penalized 1/3 a mark; briefs that are more than a week late will not be accepted. Each brief will be approximately a page in length (single spaced), and should be divided into four sections, with headings to identify each:

- The title of the case, the court deciding the case, and the date of the decision.
- Facts: A brief, one to three sentence summary of the facts.
- Question: A brief, one-sentence statement, in question form, of the issue(s) in the case.
- Holding: A brief description of the court's decision, or "holding," on each of the issues
- Reasoning/Analysis: A brief summary/analysis of the court's reasoning.

Short Response Paper. On September 30, you will turn in a short response paper (750 words maximum) responding to the assigned readings. Reflecting on what you know so far about statehood and international law, do you agree or disagree with Makau Mutua's argument in "Why Redraw the Map of Africa"? Your paper should clearly state Mutua's main points as well as your reasons for agreeing or disagreeing with his argument.

Exam I. The first exam will be an in-class exam on October 9.

Exam II. The second exam will be an in-class exam on December 9.

OFFICE HOURS AND CONTACT INFORMATION.

My office is McQuaid 101-B and my office hours are Mondays 12:30-3:00pm and by appointment. I will leave a sign-up sheet on my door each week. Please do not hesitate to come talk to me. My extension is x2461 and my e-mail address is Zinaida.Miller@shu.edu. I do make an effort to respond promptly to all email questions and concerns but I will not respond to emails received after 9:00PM until the next day.

ELECTRONICS

More than one study has concluded that taking notes by hand rather than by typing improves learning; when you cannot transcribe but rather have to translate class discussion and lecture into hand-written notes, you are far more likely to retain the information in more detail and for longer.¹ The temptation to multitask while you are on a computer will not only reduce your participation but will negatively affect those around you.² While I do not prohibit the use of laptops for notetaking in this class, I encourage you to consider taking notes by hand and either not using your computer or using it only to refer to readings. All use of electronics for any purpose other than notetaking or referencing readings is prohibited. If you use your laptop for anything else, you will be subject to discipline, including reduction in grades. If I find laptops to be a consistent distraction in class, I will ban them. Please know that I have absolutely no tolerance about the use of mobile phones in the classroom. If I see your cell phone anywhere -- on your desk or in your hand -- during class, I will confiscate it for the remainder of class. If you have an emergency situation that requires you to check your phone or email during class, please let me know before class.

CITATION FORMATS

Papers should utilize one of the Chicago Manual of Style citation formats: Author-Date or Notes and Bibliography. The guidelines for these formats are on the course Blackboard page.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Plagiarism and other forms of academic dishonesty will be reported to the administration, and may result in a lowered or failing grade for the course and up to possible dismissal from the School of Diplomacy. See University and School standards for academic conduct here: <https://www.shu.edu/student-life/upload/Student-Code-of-Conduct.pdf> and <http://www.shu.edu/academics/diplomacy/academic-conduct.cfm>

In a paper, where you quote language word for word from a source, you must place it in quotation marks or in a block quote and give the exact source for each quoted passage. Where you paraphrase something, you must cite the source. Where you refer to or use an author's insight or idea, you must cite the source. Lifting or paraphrasing language from a web site without indication and citation is plagiarism.

Any indication of plagiarism on a case brief or response paper will result in a failing grade for the assignment and a reduction in the participation grade for the class. A repeated incident of plagiarism (i.e., more than one) is likely to result in a failing grade for the class and will be reported to the administration. All materials will be turned in through Safe Assign.

INCLUSIVE LEARNING

It is the policy and practice of Seton Hall University to promote inclusive learning environments. If you have a documented disability you may be eligible for reasonable accommodations in compliance with University policy, the Americans with Disabilities Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and/or the New Jersey Law against Discrimination. Please note, students are not permitted to negotiate accommodations directly with professors. To request accommodations or assistance, please self-identify with the Office for Disability Support Services (DSS), Duffy Hall, Room 67 at the beginning of the semester. For more information or to register for services, contact DSS at (973) 313-6003 or by e-mail at DSS@shu.edu.

INCOMPLETES

Incompletes will be given only in exceptional cases for emergencies. Students wishing to request a grade of Incomplete must provide documentation to support the request accompanied by a Course Adjustment Form (available from the Diplomacy Main Office) to the professor before the date of the final examination. If the incomplete request is approved, the professor reserves the right to specify the new submission date for all missing coursework. Students who fail to submit the missing course work within this time period will receive a failing grade for all missing coursework and a final grade based on all coursework assigned. Any Incomplete not resolved within one calendar year of receiving the Incomplete or by the time of graduation (whichever comes first) automatically becomes an “FI” (which is equivalent to an F). It is the responsibility of the student to make sure they have completed all course requirements within the timeframe allotted. Please be aware that Incompletes on your transcript will impact financial aid and academic standing.

COURSE MATERIALS

The required casebook is Janis & Noyes, International Law: Cases and Commentary (5th. ed). An optional, but strongly recommended, text is Janis, International Law (7th or 6th ed.). A number of assigned readings will come from this text; it also serves as a useful resource. Additional readings will be placed the course Blackboard site and other readings are available online. The reading assignments listed below are subject to modification, so please check your email regularly, as I will notify you through email with changes as well as posting on Blackboard.

I have put two short pieces on how to read cases in the Course Information folder on Blackboard. They are written for law students in U.S. law schools, so not all of what they say will be relevant for the cases we are reading. Nonetheless, they will give you a general sense of how to read a case and how to think about a legal opinion.

Any additional materials are listed as Blackboard.

Note: I strongly recommend that you do each reading for an assignment in the order listed on the syllabus.
