Course Description

In this course, we will explore some of the most important scholarly studies that attempt to understand and explain national identities, ethnic communities and conflicts arising from such differences. During the semester we will examine a variety of theories concerning the emergence of nations, nation-states, nationhood and nationalism. We will link different historical and conceptual issues with contemporary events through multiple case studies on Bosnia, Kosovo, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, and Israel. These case studies investigate several contemporary situations where issues of ethnicity and ‘nation’ present significant challenges. We will also examine factors that contributed to the recent revival of ethnic, religious, and linguistic attachments, including globalization. Our objective is to recognize and explain contemporary issues in culturally plural societies and to demonstrate the extent to which ethnicity and nationalism continue to play a pivotal role in shaping the existing international system.

Required Textbooks:

Rogers Brubaker, Ethnicity without Groups, Cambridge: Harvard University Press, 2006.
Benedict Anderson. Imagined Communities: Reflections on the Origin and Spread of Nationalism, New York: Verso, 2006.

Recommended:

John Hutchinson and Anthony Smith (eds.), Nationalism, New York: Oxford University Press, 1995.

The above books, as assigned, are required reading for the course. Additional reading assignments will be added during the course of the semester.

Course Requirements:

Students will be graded on the following basis:

- 1) One-hour midterm exam (Monday, October 17). It will be given during the regular class period and will cover the material studied thus far. Questions will be of the essay type, but there will be objective and identification questions as well. It counts 25% of the final grade.
- 2) A term paper of 12-15 pages with at least seven references (not including the textbooks), on a topic to be approved beforehand by the professor. Due November 28 and counts 25% of the final grade. Students should work in groups of three. All groups should present the findings of their research in class in 10 minutes, followed by five minutes of questions and answers.
- 3) Take home final exam for which essay type questions will be provided on December 13 and must be received by December 20. It will cover the entire course, lectures and readings, counting 40% of the final grade. Students can choose three out of five questions and write a one-page essay for each.
- 4) Class participation (10% of course grade): Students are expected to attend all class sessions, to read all assigned materials prior to class, and to actively participate in discussions.

Policy on Incompletes:

Incompletes will be given only in exceptional cases for emergencies. Students wishing to request a grade of Incomplete must provide documentation to support the request accompanied by a Course Adjustment Form (available from the Diplomacy Main Office) to the professor before the date of the final examination. If the incomplete request is approved, the professor reserves the right to specify the new submission date for all missing coursework. Students who fail to submit the missing course work within this time period will receive a failing grade for all missing coursework and a final grade based on all coursework assigned. Any Incomplete not resolved within one calendar year of receiving the Incomplete or by the time of graduation (whichever comes first) automatically becomes an “FI” (which is equivalent to an F). It is the responsibility of the student to make sure they have completed all course requirements within the timeframe allotted. Please be aware that Incompletes on your transcript will impact financial aid and academic standing.
