Course Description

This course is designed to introduce students to the major theoretical traditions of international relations and diplomacy. We will begin with a critical investigation of the competing assumptions and concepts that form the heart of various or maybe traditional theoretical approaches to the study of world politics. As a class we will discuss the key actors, processes, and variables highlighted by each theory, and assess their relative strengths and weaknesses. Throughout this investigation, we will consider various theoretical tradeoffs relating to the issues such as levels of analysis, parsimony versus accuracy, and the types of research questions being addressed.

There is an important underlying goal of the course: to provide students with an opportunity to improve their ability to engage in critical analysis. As a result, the course centers on the examination of competing theoretical perspectives. It is expected that students will use this course to develop further three sets of skills: the ability to read complex material both quickly and effectively; the ability to write cogent analysis and include independent thinking; and the ability to speak, drawing on persuasive and reasoned oral arguments.

Course Learning Objectives

By the end of this semester, students will be able to...

- CLO 1: Identify and explain the major theoretical traditions of international relations and diplomacy.
- CLO 2: Investigate and analyze competing assumptions and concepts from which these theories are derived and which they employ.
- CLO 3: Identify key actors, processes, and variables highlighted by each theory and assess their strengths and weaknesses.
- CLO 4: Evaluate issues related to levels of analysis, parsimony versus accuracy, and the types of research questions addressed by different theoretical traditions.

M.A. Program Student Learning Outcomes

This course aims to meet the following M.A. program student learning outcomes:

- To gain knowledge and understanding of
 - 1) the key concepts, models, theories, and debates involved in the study of contemporary international relations and diplomacy
 - 2) the prevailing global issues concerning religion and race
- To develop skills of
 - 1) analyzing complex situations and synthesizing information
 - 2) communicating effectively in oral and written form.

Grading Information

Your final grade for this course will be calculated in a way that showcases your strengths. The breakdown is as follows:

- 10% of your course grade will be earned from your class participation
- 20% of your course grade will be your lowest-scoring average assignment type
- 30% of your course grade will be your medium-scoring average assignment type
- 40% of your course grade will be your highest-scoring average assignment type

For the 20%, 30%, and 40% grades: I will take the average of each of the three assignment types (12 Journals each worth 10 points, 5 Synthesis essays each worth 10 points, and the Oral Final worth 10 points). The assignment type on which your average score was the highest will be worth 40% of your overall grade. The assignment type on which your average score was the lowest will be worth 20% of your overall grade. The middle-scoring assignment type will be worth 30% of your overall grade.

Assignments:

Synthesis Essays, 10 points each

There are five synthesis essays due at natural breaks throughout the course. Synthesis essays may take the form of background essays or literature reviews. However, our synthesis essays will take the form of arguments (i.e.: Op-Eds). Synthesis Essays are worth 10 points each. See the instructions and rubric posted in Blackboard (on the Assignments and Grading page) for more details about how to write a successful Op-Ed. As you will see on the rubric, there is a granularity of .25 pt and a floor of 1 pt to equal 10 points total for each essay.

Journal Entries, 10 points each

Journal Entries are Due Each Week with the Readings. For Module 1: Betts, submit a three-sentence summary for each chapter. There are multiple chapters per part. For Module 2: Lebow and Module 3: Wagner, submit a three-sentence summary for each chapter AND a three-to-six sentence application of something that you learned from the chapter to a current event or a historical event. Each module's journal is worth 10 points. See the rubric in Blackboard (on the Assignments and Grading page) for more details about how to write a successful Journal Response. As you will see in the rubric, there are 5 criteria and 4 levels of achievement, and thus a half-point granularity to equal 10 points total for the journal.

Oral Final Exam, 10 points

See details in the Assignments and Grading section.

Remarks

Disability Services Statement

It is the policy and practice of Seton Hall University to promote inclusive learning environments. If you have a documented disability, you may be eligible for reasonable accommodations in compliance with University policy, the Americans with Disabilities Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and/or the New Jersey Law against Discrimination. Please note, students are not permitted to negotiate accommodations directly with professors. To request accommodations or assistance, please self-identify with the Office for Disability Support Services (DSS), Duffy Hall, Room 67 at the beginning of the semester. For more information or to register for services, contact DSS at (973) 313-6003 or by e-mail at DSS@shu.edu.

Policy on Incompletes

Incompletes will be given only in exceptional cases for emergencies. Students wishing to request a grade of Incomplete must provide documentation to support the request accompanied by a Course Adjustment Form (available from the Diplomacy Main Office) to the professor before the date of the final examination. If the incomplete request is approved, the professor reserves the right to specify the new submission date for all missing coursework. Students who fail to submit the missing course work within this time period will receive a failing grade for all missing coursework and a final grade based on all coursework assigned. Any Incomplete not resolved within one calendar year of receiving the Incomplete or by the time of graduation (whichever comes first) automatically becomes an "FI" (which is equivalent to an F). It is the responsibility of the student to make sure they have completed all course requirements within the timeframe allotted. Please be aware that Incompletes on your transcript will impact financial aid and academic standing.

Academic Integrity & Dishonesty

Plagiarism and other forms of academic dishonesty will be reported to the administration and may result in a lowered or failing grade for the course and up to possible dismissal from the School of Diplomacy. See University and School standards for academic conduct here: <https://www.shu.edu/student-life/upload/Student-Code-of-Conduct.pdf> and <http://www.shu.edu/academics/diplomacy/academic-conduct.cfm>. Resources for academic integrity are on the course Blackboard page.

Citation Formats

Papers should utilize one of the Chicago Manual of Style citation formats: Author-Date or Notes and Bibliography. The guidelines for these formats are here as well as on the course Blackboard page. https://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools_citationguide.html

Late or Incomplete Assignments

Students who anticipate not being able to complete an assignment on time should inform me as soon as possible. Absent prior communication, failure to complete an assignment on its due date will result in a grade penalty. All late assignments will be penalized by one-third letter grade per day (i.e., an A assignment turned in one day late is an A-, two days late a B+, etc.) except in cases of medical/family emergency or COVID-related issues. See COVID Ground Rules.

COVID Ground Rules

We're in a global pandemic. These are scary times. If you tell me you are struggling, I am not going to judge you or think less of you. You do not owe me personal information about your health (mental or physical) or living circumstances (and, for your sake as well as mine, I would prefer that you not go into specifics). If you must miss a class, need extra help, or more time on an assignment, JUST ASK. I will work with you. If I can't help you, I usually know someone who can. There are LOTS of campus resources (both virtual and in-person) available; use them. So, let's agree on some ground rules: I will try my best and you will try your best. I will cut you some slack, provided you communicate with me about your constraints. And I expect you to cut me some slack, too.

On Student Absences

The policy from the Dean of Students office is here: <https://www.shu.edu/student-life/upload/Student-Class-Absence-Faculty-FAQs.pdf>

The advice for students on absences is here: <https://www.shu.edu/student-life/upload/Student-Class-Absence-Student-FAQs.pdf>

Coronavirus Safety

As of right now, our mask mandate is mandatory for indoors (unless you're alone or eating) and in effect until further notice. The language was clear last year: No mask, no class. Updates can be found here: <https://www.shu.edu/health-intervention-communication/>

Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS)

As part of our commitment to the health and well-being of all students, Seton Hall University's Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) offers initial assessments, counseling, crisis intervention, consultation, and referral services to the SHU community. The CAPS office is located on the second floor of Mooney Hall, room 27. Appointments can be made in-person or by calling 973-761-9500 during regular business hours, Monday-Friday, 8:45 a.m. - 4:45 p.m. In case of a psychological emergency, call CAPS (973-761-9500) at any time to speak to a crisis counselor. For more information, please visit: <https://www.shu.edu/counseling-psychologicalservices/index.cfm>

* Please note that I may adjust the syllabus during the semester.

Course Calendar

MODULE 1: BETTS

Module 1 Learning Objectives

At the end of this module, students will be able to:

- MLO 1.1: Identify and summarize major concepts from an International Relations text: Betts' Conflict After the Cold War. (CLO 1, 3)
- MLO 1.2: Apply the historical lessons from Betts' Conflict After the Cold War to analyze and explain a current event. (CLO 2, 4)
- MLO 1.3: Discuss standard theories and paradigms of international relations. (CLO 1, 2, 3, 4)
- MLO 1.4: Identify important authors and the subject matter they treat. (CLO 1, 2, 3, 4)

Week 01	Aug. 31st	Introduction
Week 02	Sept. 7th	Betts Parts I and II
Week 03	Sept. 14th	Betts Parts III and IV
Week 04	Sept. 21st	Betts Part V
Synthesis Essay I – Sept. 23 rd at 5:00PM
Week 05	Sept. 28th	Betts Parts VI and VII
Week 06	Oct. 5th	Betts Part VIII
Week 07	Oct. 12th	Betts Parts IX and X
Synthesis Essay II – Oct. 14 th at 5:00PM

For Betts, submit a three-sentence summary for each chapter. There are multiple chapters per part.

Journal entries are due as scheduled above in the class calendar. Keep your sentences reasonably short: no overly extended compound-complex sentences, please! Yes, you will have to make choices about what is truly important to include and what to ignore as of secondary importance -- a good critical thinking exercise!

See the Assignments and Grading section for more details about writing Journal entries and synthesis essays.

MODULE 2: LEBOW

Module 2 Learning Objectives

At the end of this module, students will be able to:

- MLO 2.1: Identify and summarize major concepts from an International Relations text: Lebow's Coercion, Cooperation, and Ethics in International Relations. (CLO 1, 3)
- MLO 2.2: Apply the historical lessons from Lebow's Coercion, Cooperation, and Ethics in International Relations to analyze and explain a current event. (CLO 2, 4)
- MLO 2.3: Explain alternative approaches to many of the authors in the previous module. (CLO 1, 2, 3, 4)
- MLO 2.4: Identify and discuss elements which the previous module did not consider. (CLO 1, 2, 3, 4)

Week 08 Oct. 19th Lebow Ch. 1-3

Week 09 Oct. 26th Lebow Ch. 4-5

Synthesis Essay III – Oct. 28th at 5:00PM

Week 10 Nov. 2nd Lebow Ch. 6-9

Week 11 Nov. 9th Lebow Ch. 10-14

Synthesis Essay IV – Nov. 11th at 5:00PM

For Lebow, submit a three-sentence summary for each chapter AND a three-to-six sentence application of something that you learned from the chapter to a current event or a historical event.

Journal entries are due as scheduled above in the class calendar. Keep your sentences reasonably short: no overly extended compound-complex sentences, please! Yes, you will have to make choices about what is truly important to include and what to ignore as of secondary importance -- a good critical thinking exercise!

See the Assignments and Grading section for more details about writing Journal entries and synthesis essays.

MODULE 3: WAGNER

Module 3 Learning Objectives

At the end of this module, students will be able to:

- MLO 3.1: Identify and summarize major concepts from an International Relations text: Wagner's War and the State. (CLO 1, 3)
- MLO 3.2: Apply the historical lessons from Wagner's War and the State to analyze and explain a current event. (CLO 2, 4)
- MLO 3.3: Critique fundamental foundations of the standard paradigms in the field. (CLO 1, 2, 3, 4)
- MLO 3.4: Propose and explain an alternative formulation of interlocking bargains. (CLO 1, 2, 3, 4)

Week 12 Nov. 16th Wagner Ch. 1-3

Class will not meet on Nov. 23rd because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Week 13 Nov. 30th Wagner Ch. 4-7

Synthesis Essay V – Dec. 2nd at 5:00PM

For Wagner, submit a three-sentence summary for each chapter AND a three-to-six sentence application of something that you learned from the chapter to a current event or a historical event.

Journal entries are due as scheduled above in the class calendar. Keep your sentences reasonably short: no overly extended compound-complex sentences, please! Yes, you will have to make choices about what is truly important to include and what to ignore as of secondary importance -- a good critical thinking exercise!

See the Assignments and Grading section for more details about writing Journal entries and synthesis essays.

MODULE 4: ORAL FINAL EXAM

Week 14 Oral final examinations will be scheduled by sign-up.

See the Assignments and Grading section for more details about the final exam.

Assignments and Grading

Synthesis Essays Instructions & Grading

There are five synthesis essays due at natural breaks throughout the course. Synthesis essays may take the form of background essays or literature reviews. However, our synthesis essays will take the form of arguments (i.e.: Op-Eds).

Begin your argumentative synthesis essay with a strong thesis, stating a particular position on the topic of the paper. There are several possible reasons for writing an argument essay. They include:

- To contrast topics or ideas
- To argue a position
- To evaluate a text
- To explain cause and effect relationships.

Your purpose as an author will determine the approach taken to write the essay. It also determines how the information will be presented.

Once you have taken a side, stick to it. You may provide counterarguments, but they should be minimal and weaker than your main arguments. Try summarizing your ideas before writing so that you do not include too much information in the papers. Your readers want to read a synthesized project, not the actual work. By presenting the facts directly, you risk having the reader misinterpret it.

All synthesis essays should be no longer than 1000 words. For comparison, a typical op-ed is 800 words. 800 words is a good target.

Synthesis Essays are worth 10 points each. See the linked rubric for more details about how to write a successful Op-Ed. As you will see on the rubric, there is a granularity of .25 pt and a floor of 1 pt to equal 10 points total for each essay. Rubric Citation: Hughes, Nicole. "Op Ed Rubric." San Jose State University, <https://www.sjsu.edu/people/nicole.hughes/courses/engl1aspring13/s1/OpEd-rubric.pdf>.

Journal Entries Instructions & Grading

Journal Entries are Due Each Week with the Readings

For Module 1: Betts, submit a three-sentence summary for each chapter. There are multiple chapters per part.

For Module 2: Lebow and Module 3: Wagner, submit a three-sentence summary for each chapter AND a three-to-six sentence application of something that you learned from the chapter to a current event or a historical event. (The fact that the parts of Betts contain multiple chapters will keep the sentences-per-week workload more even throughout the term.)

Journal entries are due as scheduled in the class calendar. Keep your sentences reasonably short: no overly extended compound-complex sentences, please! Yes, you will have to make choices about what is truly important to include and what to ignore as of secondary importance -- a good critical thinking exercise!

Here is an example of a summary followed by an application, each with its own paragraph:

Morgenthau elaborates six principles of realism in international relations. The most important principles can be reduced to three ideas: laws rooted in human nature give rise to international politics; interest, universal in concept though not content, is defined in terms of power and guides the conduct of international politics; and the concrete principle of state survival trumps even universal moral principles both in the abstract and in the concrete. One potential weakness in Morgenthau's framework is a perhaps too-rigid separation of the realms of economic, political, moral, and religious man.

Morgenthau's claim that state survival is more important than any other consideration illuminates the North Korean nuclear and missile crisis. It is no secret that the United States would welcome a unified, democratic Korea and that many US actions since the middle of the 20th century have been directed toward that end. In response, North Korea long ago decided to develop nuclear munitions and long-range missiles as a cornerstone of its defense policy. North Korea believes that the power inherent in such military capability will suffice to prevent state death at the hands of American offensive action either by defeating US and allied forces in a militarized dispute or by preventing hostile military action in the first place.

Each module's journal is worth 10 points. See the linked rubric for more details about how to write a successful Journal Response. As you will see in the rubric, there are 5 criteria and 4 levels of achievement, and thus a half-point granularity to equal 10 points total for the journal. Rubric Citation: "Response Writing Rubric." Burlington County Institute of Technology, <https://www.bcit.cc/cms/lib04/NJ03000372/Centricity/Domain/141/Response%20Writing%20Rubric.pdf>.

Oral Final Exam Instructions & Grading

The final examination will be oral. The format is uncomplicated.

The student will bring three questions to the exam (Exams will be held remotely via Microsoft Teams). The instructor will look at the three questions, and, if they are judged to be questions that will illustrate the breadth and depth of the student's knowledge and comprehension, the instructor will choose from among the three questions the one which the student will answer. If, however, the questions are found to be unsatisfactory, the instructor will examine the student on whatever topic the instructor wishes. Good questions integrate at least three themes from the course.

There will be an electronic sign-up sheet for the final exam. The exam will last 15 minutes for graduate students.

The exam will last 15 minutes for graduate students and be graded out of 10 points, five each for delivery and content, in half-point increments.

In the past, some students have chosen to take the final exam jointly in a debate format. In this case, partnering students sign up for two consecutive time slots. The format remains similar: students bring three questions, the instructor chooses a satisfactory question or poses his own, and the students debate the issue for 30 minutes if graduates. (For the record, one year I had three undergraduates who held a successful three-way debate!)

Prepare to deliver your points completely and concisely. The time will pass much more rapidly than you think!

A portion of the last class will be set aside for students to propose and critique possible final exam questions.

Final Grade Calculation

Your final grade for this course will be calculated in a way that showcases your strengths. The breakdown is as follows:

- 10% of your course grade will be earned from your class participation
- 20% of your course grade will be your lowest-scoring average assignment type
- 30% of your course grade will be your medium-scoring average assignment type
- 40% of your course grade will be your highest-scoring average assignment type

For the 20%, 30%, and 40% grades: I will take the average of each of the three assignment types (12 Journals each worth 10 points, 5 Synthesis essays each worth 10 points, and the Oral Final worth 10 points). The assignment type on which your average score was the highest will be worth 40% of your overall grade. The assignment type on which your average score was the lowest will be worth 20% of your overall grade. The middle-scoring assignment type will be worth 30% of your overall grade.
