

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

March 23, 1970

DEAR MR. KETTERSON:

. . . In establishing a law review at Seton Hall you and your classmates have found a goal well worth pursuing and I am sure that this effort has required you to surmount some formidable obstacles. The victories that count, however, are never the easy ones, and each of you can take particular pride in an initiative which will benefit your alma mater but beyond that will bring great satisfaction to all of you.

With my best wishes for the years ahead,

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script, which appears to be "Richard Nixon", is written below the word "Sincerely,".
