“in ’tər-āk’tiv” an exhibition of contemporary art will open at the Walsh Gallery at Seton Hall University on November 8th and continue through December 15th. Everyone is welcome to attend the opening reception on Thursday, November 9th from 5pm to 8pm. This exhibition consists of works of art in which the viewer is obliged to complete the artists’ intent by handling, playing with or contributing in some way to the art. By doing so, the viewer becomes an integral part of the artistic process and in essence, a co-creator of the piece. Artists from all over the country are participating in this show which was juried by Gallery Director, Jeanne Brasile, Artist/Gallerist/Professor, Asha Ganpat and Artist/Curator, Gianluca Bianchino. The three reviewed over 50 pieces of art to arrive at the core group of 11 artists featured in the exhibition. In addition, a number of invited artists will participate in the show. Some of the various media on exhibition are collage, digital art, sculpture and painting.

The exhibition is free and open to the public. For more information, contact Jeanne Brasile at brasilje@shu.edu or call 973-275-2033.

For 150 years, Seton Hall University has been a catalyst for leadership, developing the whole student, mind, heart and spirit. Seton Hall combines the resources of a large university with the personal attention of a small liberal arts college. Its attractive suburban campus is only 14 miles by train, bus or car to New York City, with the wealth of employment, internship, cultural and entertainment opportunities the city offers. Seton Hall is a Catholic university that embraces students of all races and religions, challenging each to better the world with integrity, compassion and a commitment to serving others. For more information, see www.shu.edu
