Dialogue with an Ancient Forest
March 3 through April 11, 2008
Opening Reception
Thursday, March 6 - 5pm to 8pm

The Walsh Gallery at Seton Hall University is pleased to present a multi-media installation by renowned sculptor, Herb Rosenberg. "Dialogue with an Ancient Forest" features large scale aluminum columns, each burnished and painted to achieve the appearance of three-dimensional surfaces that reflect and refract light to give viewers an ever-changing surface as they move throughout the gallery. Each of the columns is paired with music, composed by Andrew Rosenberg. The sculptures provide a meditative experience akin to being in a stand of majestic trees.

Gallery Director, Jeanne Brasile, chose to exhibit Herb Rosenberg's work based upon the strength of the sculptures. In addition, the environment created by the work will provide visitors with a transcendent experience. Said Brasile, "Rosenberg's work totally transforms the gallery space in a manner that connects to viewers aesthetically, while bringing to mind ecological and environment issues. It is simultaneously alluring and thought provoking."

For 150 years, Seton Hall University has been a catalyst for leadership, developing the whole student, mind, heart and spirit. Seton Hall combines the resources of a large university with the personal attention of a small liberal arts college. Its attractive suburban campus is only 14 miles by train, bus or car to New York City, with the wealth of employment, internship, cultural and entertainment opportunities the city offers. Seton Hall is a Catholic university that embraces students of all races and religions, challenging each other to better the world with integrity, compassion and a commitment to serving others.
